CARROLLTON, TX, UNITED STATES, August 18, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Summer brings a wave of new puppy owners across the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex, and many are discovering that the weeks immediately following vaccination are the most critical window for establishing lasting behavioral patterns. All Dogs Unleashed accepts puppies as young as 14 weeks of age into its structured two-week Board and Train program at its Carrollton facility, giving DFW families a professional option precisely when early intervention produces the most durable results.

The enrollment window opens at 14 weeks, with 16 weeks preferred to ensure puppies have completed their initial vaccination series. During the two-week residential stay, trainers work with each puppy daily in a controlled, distraction-managed environment. The program targets the behaviors most common in young dogs: house training failures, nipping and mouthing, destructive chewing, and boundary recognition. Addressing these habits during this early window reduces the effort owners must apply after the puppy returns home.

All Dogs Unleashed uses a balanced training methodology that pairs positive reinforcement with clear structure and consistent communication. Unlike group puppy classes that rely on a single weekly session, the residential format gives trainers continuous contact with each dog across a full two-week period. The result is a puppy that has practiced core commands and appropriate behavior in real-life scenarios rather than a controlled classroom setting alone.

The program covers foundational obedience commands including sit, stay, come, and heel, alongside socialization sessions with other dogs in monitored indoor and outdoor environments. Puppies leaving the program receive the same lifetime support guarantee extended to all graduates. Owners can contact the training team at any point in the dog's life, at no additional cost, for guidance, refresher work, or behavioral consultation.

The Carrollton facility is also backed by a money-back guarantee. Clients pay half the program fee at enrollment, observe their dog's progress at the pickup session, and pay the remaining balance only after confirming they are satisfied with the results.

"Starting a puppy in a structured residential program during that early developmental window gives them something most dogs never get: a consistent environment where the rules do not change depending on who is in the room," said Brian Claeys, Co-Founder and CEO of All Dogs Unleashed in Carrollton, TX. "By the time they go home, they are not just responding to commands. They understand how to behave."

DFW families with puppies approaching the 14-to-16-week age range are encouraged to contact the Carrollton facility to discuss enrollment timing and program fit before habits that are straightforward to correct at this stage become harder to address at six or twelve months.
