The certification underscores the company's ongoing commitment to operational excellence, customer satisfaction and continuous improvement across its logistics operations.

Awarded following a comprehensive third-party audit, the certification validates that NXTPoint's quality management systems continue to meet globally recognized standards for process management, risk mitigation and service quality. Auditors evaluated the company's internal procedures, documentation, risk management practices and customer-focused processes, confirming alignment with industry best practices.

“NXTPoint's continued certification reflects the dedication of our team members and their relentless focus on delivering quality at every stage of the supply chain,” said Trish St. John, Senior Vice President of Environment, Health, Safety and Quality Assurance at NXTPoint. “As our customers navigate increasingly complex logistics challenges, this achievement reinforces our commitment to providing dependable, efficient and scalable solutions that help them succeed.”

The most recent audit to maintain certification highlighted several strengths throughout NXTPoint's operations, including:

- A strong and positive work environment at the company's Contract Logistics facility on

Pritchard Road in Jacksonville, Florida

- A robust and well-integrated QMS
- Highly skilled employees across warehouse operations, cross-functional teams and back-office support functions
- Demonstrated commitment to continuous improvement through established Plan-Do-Check-Act (PDCA) practices
- Consistent performance in meeting customer quality requirements and key performance indicators, particularly for complex logistics programs involving medical devices, raw materials and assembly services

NXTPoint Logistics was originally certified to ISO 9001 in 2019 and has maintained its certification through ongoing audits and continuous process improvement initiatives. The current certification is valid through September 23, 2028, and covers warehousing, distribution, repackaging, end-to-end supply chain management and integrated logistics solutions.

For customers and partners, the certification provides additional assurance that NXTPoint operates under rigorous quality standards designed to minimize errors, ensure exceptional product handling and deliver consistent service performance. The achievement further supports the company's mission of being People Powered. Customer Driven.

As supply chains continue to evolve, NXTPoint remains focused on investing in people, processes and technology that enhance operational performance and create value for customers across industries. The ISO 9001:2015 certification serves as an independent validation of that commitment and positions the company for continued growth and excellence in the years ahead.
