

Crowdfunding Campaign Launched to Prevent Foreclosure and Fund Work Vehicle for Delivery Driver After Medical Emergency

Global crowdfunding initiative seeks to stabilize housing and restore independent income for multi-app gig worker following sudden health and vehicle crises.

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, August 20, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- An international crowdfunding campaign has been established to address housing instability and facilitate a return to work for Melanie, an independent multi-app delivery driver facing mortgage foreclosure following simultaneous health and mechanical crises.

United

For several years, Melanie operated as an independent contractor within the gig economy, providing delivery services across major platforms including Walmart, DoorDash, and Uber Eats. Her ability to generate income was abruptly halted when severe mechanical failures rendered both of her primary work vehicles inoperable beyond repair. Shortly after the loss of her transport assets, the underlying financial stress contributed to a sudden, acute heart attack that required emergency, lifesaving surgery.

Melanie has successfully navigated her medical recovery, is entirely self-sufficient, and is fully capable of driving. She is ready to return to work immediately, but is locked out of her livelihood because she lacks a functioning vehicle. The months spent recovering have left her facing imminent mortgage foreclosure and mounting utility debts.

The "Support for Melanie After Heart Surgery" campaign on GoFundMe aims to bypass local boundaries to connect with a global community of labor advocates and donors to provide her with the tools to rebuild.

All funds raised will go directly toward catching up on past-due mortgage payments to halt foreclosure and securing a reliable work vehicle so Melanie can immediately resume her independent delivery business.
