

Your Health Now Launches Refreshed Website With Updates to Four Core Services

🔊 Listen to the Podcast Episode

Merchantville, NJ — Your Health Now, a dual-location integrative health clinic in Merchantville, NJ, and Chalfont, PA, has announced the launch of a refreshed website alongside updates to four of its key services: functional medicine, family chiropractic care, decompression therapy, and telehealth consultations.

The updated site at Root Cause Health Care serves as the clinic's digital gateway for patients seeking integrative care across New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Led by Dr. Chris, the clinic has provided care for over 15 years, combining functional medicine and chiropractic services under one roof and maintaining a 5.0 patient rating across its 20 specialty offerings.

"We built this website refresh around a simple idea making it easier for patients to find the proactive, root-cause healthcare they deserve," said Dr. Chris. "Whether someone is exploring functional medicine in New Jersey for the first time or connecting with us through telehealth from across the state, we want the experience to be clear, accessible, and welcoming. These updates reflect our commitment to meeting patients where they are and helping them take meaningful steps toward lasting health."

Updated Functional Medicine Resources

The refreshed website gives patients a clearer path to the clinic's functional medicine services, which use advanced lab testing and personalized clinical protocols to address chronic conditions, fatigue, hormonal imbalances, and digestive concerns. Rather than managing symptoms alone, the clinic's functional medicine track is built around doctor-led, root-cause investigation tailored to each patient's unique biology. The site now provides a more accessible way for patients to book a free initial functional medicine consultation to discuss health concerns and determine next steps.

Family Chiropractic Care Highlighted for PA and NJ Patients

The website update also brings greater visibility to the clinic's family chiropractic care offerings, which span pediatric, pregnancy, and athletic chiropractic services. Patients visiting the Merchantville, NJ or Chalfont, PA locations can now navigate these service categories more directly, with updated descriptions reflecting the scope of care available at each office. Families seeking chiropractic care in Pennsylvania or New Jersey across multiple age groups can explore their options from a single starting point on the site.

Decompression Therapy Information Expanded

Decompression therapy, one of the clinic's services for patients dealing with pain and mobility issues, now receives more detailed coverage on the refreshed site. Patients considering this treatment can review updated service descriptions to better understand what the therapy involves and whether it may be appropriate for their situation before scheduling an in-office visit at either location. The expanded content is part of the clinic's broader effort to help patients make informed decisions about their care.

Telehealth Consultations Accessible Statewide

The website refresh also highlights the clinic's telehealth functional medicine consultations, available via secure video to patients anywhere in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. This service allows individuals who cannot visit the Merchantville or Chalfont offices to access doctor-led, root-cause consultations remotely, removing geographic barriers to specialist-level care. The updated site streamlines how patients learn about and connect with the telehealth option, presenting it alongside the clinic's in-office services as part of a comprehensive care model. Patients interested in exploring the updated services can visit the refreshed website to review their options and schedule consultations.
