"Our mission has always been to bridge the gap between visionary design and flawless execution," said Stephen Taglianetti, CEO at The House of Pontovi. "By expanding our reach from coast to coast, we are bringing a new level of convenience and craftsmanship to the country's most discerning homeowners. Whether you are in Southern California or South Florida, our team is equipped to handle every detail of your project under one roof."

A key differentiator for The House of Pontovi is its ownership of production facilities on both the East and West Coasts.
