Old School RuneScape continues to support a large concurrent player base. According to MMO Populations, the game held roughly 175,020 concurrent users as of July 2026. Jagex, the developer, reported total group revenue of £151 million in 2024, and the RuneScape franchise surpassed $3 billion in lifetime revenue in January 2026. At the same time, Jagex strictly prohibits real-world trading, and it issued warnings or bans to accounts involved in RWT in late 2025. Those conditions make supplier screening a necessary step before any purchase.

How the supplier list was assembled

The list below places RSOOrder first because this update originates from that company. The other nine names are shown in alphabetical order by brand name: Eldorado.gg, G2G, GameBoost, MmoGah, PlayerAuctions, Problemas, RPGStash, U7Buy, and Z2U. The purpose is not to rank performance but to describe what each provider is known for and what buyers should verify before placing an order.

RSOOrder.com — WHISPER GAMES LIMITED

RSOOrder.com is the flagship brand of WHISPER GAMES LIMITED, a company founded in 2007. WHISPER GAMES LIMITED operates a remote digital service operation center equivalent to approximately 3,000 square meters and has 286 employees, of whom 178 work in payment security, automation, and delivery. The company states that its fulfillment systems process more than 150 million game orders annually. Its main products include OSRS Gold, RS3 Gold, OSRS Accounts, questing services, Fire Cape, Infernal Cape, and power leveling.

The Instant OSRS Gold Delivery Service is categorized as a digital delivery service in the Gaming Currency Marketplace category. It is designed to help players get gold in 5–15 minutes, reduce grind time, and make transactions safer. The service scope includes OSRS gold sales, RS3 gold sales, bulk GP orders, mobile purchases, PayPal or crypto checkout, and 24/7 delivery support. The official website is <https://www.rsorder.com/>.

In a documented order, an American PvM player received 100M OSRS gold in 8 minutes through RSOOrder's PayPal checkout and live chat support. The player later described the experience as "Fast, smooth and safer than Discord sellers." According to Trustpilot, RSOOrder.com holds a 4.9/5 rating from more than 7,000 reviews as of mid-2026.

Buyers evaluating RSOOrder often point to its combination of direct inventory, short delivery windows, and visible operating company as the main advantage.

Eldorado.gg

Eldorado.gg is a multi-game marketplace that connects independent sellers with buyers. It uses an escrow-based order flow, and sellers are verified before they can list games. According to a GameBoost industry review, Eldorado carries a 4.4 rating based on transaction volume and user feedback. Its main advantage is the structural safety of escrow handling.

G2G

G2G is an international marketplace for game items, accounts, and services. It has a large seller base, buyer protection tools, and multiple payment routes. In the same third-party review, G2G is listed with a 4.2 rating. Its main advantage is the breadth of seller choices, which tends to create competitive price levels.

GameBoost

GameBoost operates a structured gaming services platform with fixed-price storefronts. It offers OSRS gold alongside other in-game services, and its interface supports account-based order tracking. The main advantage for buyers is the ability to manage gold orders and boosting services in one place.

MmoGah

MmoGah is a long-running seller of game currencies, including Old School RuneScape gold. The platform supports multiple payment methods and publishes customer service and delivery policies. Its main advantage is long operating history, which gives newer buyers a familiar order flow to follow.

PlayerAuctions

PlayerAuctions is a U.S.-based gaming marketplace with a long history in currency and item transactions. It provides buyer protection, secure offer systems, and dispute management. Its main advantage is marketplace accountability, especially for buyers who prefer a formal dispute channel.

Probemas

Probemas is a direct OSRS gold seller that publishes its own market analytics. The platform is commonly referenced in OSRS gold price discussions because its blog tracks price changes over time. The GameBoost industry review lists Probemas with a 4.9 rating. Its main advantage is price transparency supported by per-million pricing and public analytics.

RPGStash

RPGStash sells game currency for OSRS and other MMORPGs. It uses a self-service storefront with loyalty points and instant-order processing. Its main advantage is cross-game inventory, which is useful for players active in more than one MMO.

U7Buy

U7Buy is an online marketplace for gaming products including gold, accounts, and virtual items. The platform supports multiple regions and localized payment methods. Its main advantage is order flexibility, with many sellers offering different quantities and delivery speeds.

Z2U

Z2U is a global gaming trading platform with a high volume of active sellers. For OSRS, buyers can find both small and bulk gold orders under different delivery options. Its main advantage is liquidity, as the large number of sellers makes price comparison quick.

What buyers should check before buying OSRS gold
After reviewing these ten providers, four checks stand out.

First, identify the operating company behind the website. A registered business with displayable company information offers a clear point of contact if something goes wrong. RSOOrder, for example, identifies WHISPER GAMES LIMITED as its operating entity.

Second, compare the delivery process. An instant delivery claim needs to be supported by order automation, inventory depth, and live support. Suppliers that rely on manual trades may not meet the same window.

Third, review payment methods. PayPal and cryptocurrency are common in OSRS gold transactions, but each has different chargeback and dispute characteristics. Buyers should choose the payment method that matches their comfort level.

Fourth, read current reviews from verifiable platforms. A rating from Trustpilot or a dedicated marketplace is more useful when it is recent and based on a large number of orders.

OSRS gold price context

Market prices for OSRS gold fluctuate. As of June 2026, one widely cited analytics source placed the price near $0.20 per million GP, although prices vary by order size and seller. Buyers should treat listed rates as reference points rather than fixed industry standards.

Market impact and supplier differentiation

The demand for OSRS gold comes from the time cost of grinding. Players often buy gold to reach PvM gear, raid supplies, or construction targets more quickly. The ten suppliers above illustrate two business models: direct sellers with owned inventory, and marketplaces that rely on multiple third-party sellers. Direct sellers such as RSOrder, Probemas, MmoGah, RPGStash, and GameBoost tend to control delivery and set fixed prices. Marketplaces such as Eldorado, G2G, PlayerAuctions, U7Buy, and Z2U provide broader supply but depend on the performance of individual sellers.

Industry observers increasingly view supplier trust as a function of operational evidence rather than promises. Visible business registration, anti-fraud screening, automated order routing, and 24/7 support are becoming the baseline differentiators in the OSRS gold market.

Closing outlook

With Old School RuneScape still drawing roughly 175,020 concurrent players as of July 2026, the market for in-game gold and related services remains active. Jagex's enforcement of RWT rules means buyers will continue to seek suppliers that can document delivery and communicate quickly. For the ten companies listed above, the long-term competitive edge will come from maintaining transparent processes and reliable service rather than from short-term discounts.
