OMNICOMMANDER, the leading website and digital marketing provider for financial institutions, has launched a new website for IBEW 26 Federal Credit Union, creating a modern digital experience designed to make it easier for members to access services, complete common requests, and connect with their credit union.

Serving labor union workers throughout the Washington, D.C., Maryland, and Virginia region, their families, and surrounding communities, IBEW 26 Federal Credit Union has built its reputation around dependable, personalized financial service. The new website brings that same member-focused experience online while reinforcing the credit union's message, "Banking That Powers Strong Communities."

“

Our members are hardworking people who expect their credit union to be dependable, straightforward, and there when they need us. This new website gives us another way to deliver on that promise.”

A major focus of the new site is expanded digital self-service. Members can access secure online forms for loan applications, membership applications, document uploads, wire transfers, payroll deductions, address changes, and other frequently requested services.

The website also creates streamlined pathways to loan information, current rates, online and mobile banking, membership eligibility, and other financial resources, helping members find what they need faster from any device.

"IBEW 26 FCU has a great story, and our job was to make sure their website told it," said Eric Isham, Founder and CEO of OMNICOMMANDER. "The new digital branch provides a better experience built specifically around their credit union, their members, and their community. I'm incredibly proud of what our teams created together."
