

Sakar Foundation Independence Day Celebration in Malad Connects National Pride With Youth Leadership

More than 100 people gathered in Ambedkar Nagar as Hiten Bhuta spoke with students and families about technology, learning and India's future.

MUMBAI, MAHARASHTRA, INDIA, August 21, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Sakar Foundation marked India's 80th Independence Day with a community celebration in Ambedkar Nagar, Malad, Mumbai, on August 15, bringing together more than 100 people for an occasion that combined national observance, community interaction and a message about preparing young people for the future.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi interacting with young students during an event, highlighting a moment of appreciation and encouragement.

The celebration included the participation of Hiten Bhuta, who engaged directly with parents and students from Ambedkar Nagar and used the occasion to speak about the importance of learning new technologies and developing the confidence to take leadership.

A community event becomes meaningful when the gathering creates lasting relationships, participation and a stronger sense of responsibility to one another.”

Hiten Bhuta

The event began with Hiten Bhuta offering garlands to Lord Buddha and the statue of Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar, followed by the hoisting of the Tricolor, the Indian national flag. These moments placed the celebration in a setting that connected national identity, social values and community participation.

Bhuta also spent time interacting with parents and students from the neighborhood. During his interaction with the children, he spoke in Marathi about the importance of learning new technology and encouraged them to think beyond simply following technological change.

His message was forward-looking: young people should develop the knowledge, confidence and leadership mindset needed not only to contribute to India but also to aspire to lead in a changing world.

The emphasis on technology was particularly relevant to the students present. As digital and emerging technologies continue to influence education, employment and entrepreneurship, early exposure to technology and leadership thinking can help young people see themselves as participants in the future rather than simply observers of it.

"A community event becomes meaningful when the gathering creates lasting relationships, participation and a stronger sense of responsibility to one another."

The celebration also included a tribute to service. Hiten Bhuta honored Shri. Jadhav, a veteran retired Army officer, recognized his service and brought an element of intergenerational respect into the community gathering.

The presence of students, parents, community members and a retired military veteran created a gathering that connected different generations around Independence Day. The event therefore became not only a commemoration of August 15, but also an opportunity to discuss what the next generation can contribute to the country's future.

Mangal Gaikwad and Sunil Gaikwad were associated with the Ambedkar Nagar celebration.

Sakar Jivanvikas Trust (Sakar Trust) is an India-registered public charitable trust whose publicly described areas include healthcare awareness, education, human empowerment, cultural programs and social initiatives. Its public materials emphasize community-oriented programs and service.

For Sakar Foundation, the Malad celebration adds another documented community activity centered on participation, cultural connection and engagement with local residents. The event also illustrates a broader opportunity for community gatherings to become spaces where national occasions are connected with education, aspiration and practical conversations about the future.

Hiten Bhuta is a technology entrepreneur and community contributor associated with CGS Infotech Solutions, Cyberweb Hotel, Sakar Jivanvikas Trust and OpenClearFuture. His work spans technology, hospitality, strategic foresight, AI training, community programs and public speaking. The message delivered in Malad was ultimately simple: Independence Day is not only a time to remember the journey that brought India to freedom; it can also be a moment to think about the capabilities the next generation needs to carry that journey forward.

Organizations, event organizers, community groups and media professionals interested in interviewing Hiten Bhuta, inviting him for an event or panel discussion, or exploring a relevant consulting, training or collaboration opportunity may contact Shreya Chavan for a complimentary consulting and review call.
