

Michigan-Produced Series The Dockman Releases Season 2 on Amazon Prime

The Michigan-produced reality series follows brothers Jerry and Garrick Wilson as they install docks and boat lifts across the Great Lakes.

BRIGHTON, MI, UNITED STATES, August 24, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Michigan-produced reality series follows brothers Jerry and Garrick Wilson as they install docks and boat lifts across the Great Lakes while navigating the unpredictable adventures of life on the water.

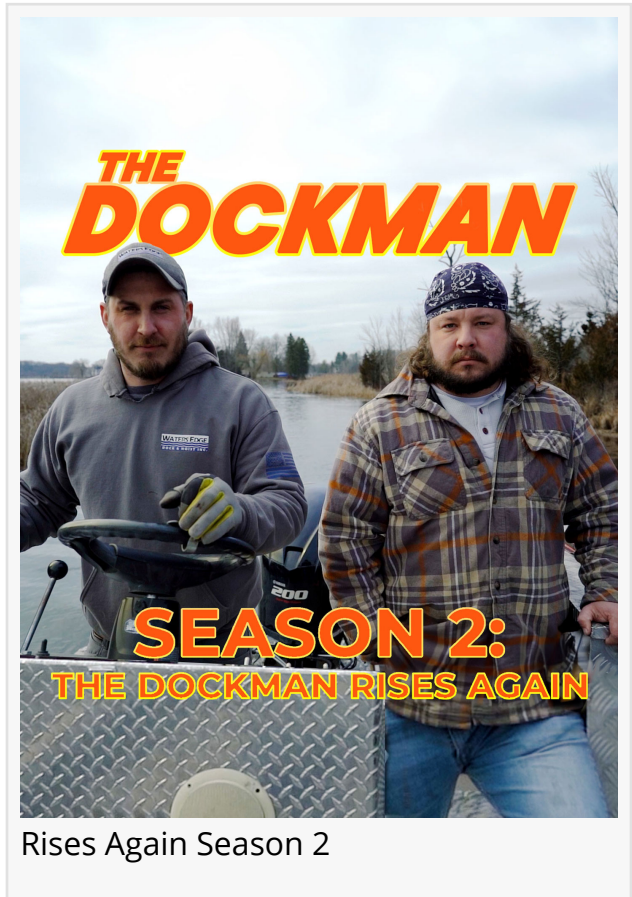

The Michigan-produced reality television series The Dockman has released its second season on Amazon Prime, bringing the series' look at dock building, boating and Michigan's outdoor lifestyle to a national streaming audience.

Produced and filmed by Michigan filmmaker Brandon Damon and Breaker Digital Marketing, The Dockman follows brothers Jerry and Garrick Wilson as they travel throughout Michigan installing docks and boat lifts for customers. Along the way, the work regularly leads to unexpected challenges, outdoor adventures and encounters with the people who live and work along Michigan's waterways.

Season 2, titled The Dockman Rises Again, expands the series beyond the day-to-day work of installing docks and boat lifts, highlighting the people, locations and businesses that make Michigan's waterfront culture unique.

At the center of the series is Jerry Wilson, a longtime Michigan dock builder whose path to entrepreneurship began well before television. After leaving high school, Wilson stepped away from traditional education to help support his family following an accident that left his father impaired. He eventually built his career through entrepreneurship and the marine industry.

Wilson later returned to education and earned his GED, a milestone that became part of his larger story of building a career on his own terms.

Michigan has an incredible waterfront culture, and The Dockman gives viewers an authentic look at the people, businesses and adventures behind life on the water."

Jerry Wilson

"The Dockman was never intended to be a traditional reality show," said Brandon Damon, producer and director of the series. "We wanted to document what actually happens when you spend a season traveling around Michigan building docks and boat lifts. The people, the places and the unexpected situations are what make the story."

Unlike scripted television, the series follows the brothers through real jobs and real situations on the water, giving viewers a behind-the-scenes look at an industry that is rarely featured on television, crew moments and all.

The second season also continues the series' focus on Michigan's outdoor recreation and waterfront communities, including locations throughout the state and the Upper Peninsula.

For Damon and his production company, the release represents another step in an independently produced Michigan series reaching audiences beyond the state.

"Michigan has an incredible outdoor culture, but there are not many television series that show what it is actually like to work on the water here," Damon said. "We wanted to make something that felt authentic to the people who live this lifestyle and work with their hands every damn day."

The Dockman: The Dockman Rises Again is currently available to stream on Amazon Prime.

About The Dockman

The Dockman is a Michigan-produced reality television series following brothers Jerry and Garrick Wilson as they install docks and boat lifts throughout Michigan. The series combines marine construction, outdoor recreation, entrepreneurship and unscripted adventures on Michigan's waterways.

The series is produced and filmed by Brandon Damon and Breaker Digital Marketing. Brought to you by Waters Edge Dock & Hoist.

Brandon Damon

Breaker Digital

+1 517-404-8855

email us here

Visit us on social media:

LinkedIn

Instagram

Facebook

YouTube

TikTok

This press release can be viewed online at: <https://www.einpresswire.com/article/936052911>

EIN Presswire's priority is source transparency. We do not allow opaque clients, and our editors try to be careful about weeding out false and misleading content. As a user, if you see something we have missed, please do bring it to our attention. Your help is welcome. EIN Presswire, Everyone's Internet News Presswire™, tries to define some of the boundaries that are reasonable in today's world. Please see our Editorial Guidelines for more information.

© 1995-2026 Newsmatics Inc. All Right Reserved.