

Take 2 Dental Implant Studio: Alaska's First Practice Built Solely for Full-Arch Implants

Dr. Guy Burk, DMD, DABOI, leads Anchorage's only dedicated full-arch implant restoration team.

ANCHORAGE, AK, UNITED STATES, August 24, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Patients across Alaska searching for full-arch dental implant restorations now have access to a practice built entirely around that specialty. Take 2 Dental Implant Studio, located at 502 W Northern Lights Blvd, Ste A, Anchorage, AK 99503, is the state's first and only dental practice dedicated exclusively to Full-arch implant restorations, led by Dr. Guy Burk, DMD, DABOI — one of just two Board-Certified Dental Implantologists practicing in Alaska.

Full-arch implant dentistry, sometimes called "All-on-X" or implant-supported full-arch restoration, replaces an entire row of missing or failing teeth with a fixed set of prosthetic teeth anchored to a small number of surgically placed implants. Because the process involves surgery, prosthetic design, and laboratory fabrication, patients typically visit multiple specialists and offices to complete treatment. Take 2 Dental Implant Studio was built to change that by housing surgical planning, implant placement, an in-house dental laboratory, and prosthetic fabrication under

Same-Day Teeth, Digitally Planned

Using 3D-printed prototyping technology, the Take 2 team can design and deliver implant-supported temporary teeth in a single appointment, with new smiles fabricated in as little as one hour on the day of surgery. This same-day approach is intended to reduce the number of visits, referrals, and appointments typically required for full-arch treatment.

"Being able to design and deliver a patient's new teeth the same day as surgery, using our own lab and 3D printing, changes what a full-arch appointment feels like for someone who's been putting this off for years," said Dr. Burk, DMD, DABOI. "A lot of our patients come to us after implant work elsewhere didn't go the way they hoped. Being one of only two Board-Certified Dental Implantologists in Alaska means we can take on cases other offices have to turn away,"

We built Take 2 Dental Implant Studio because full-arch patients deserve one team that handles surgery, lab work, and the final smile — not three different offices and three different waiting rooms”

Care Beyond Standard Cases

Because bone loss, prior implant failures, or previous restorative work can complicate treatment, the practice also offers zygomatic, pterygoid, and trans-nasal implant options for patients with limited bone density — cases that might otherwise be declined elsewhere. The team also completes, reworks, or converts full-arch cases originally started by other providers, including upgrading older restorations to modern materials for improved hygiene and durability.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q 1) What makes Take 2 Dental Implant Studio different?
