The SmarterD brand will remain intact as the acquisition strengthens Ampcus's cybersecurity and digital transformation portfolio with a unified risk intelligence platform.

Ampcus Inc., a leading provider of digital transformation, cybersecurity services, and IT solutions, today announced its acquisition of SmarterD, an AI-powered data convergence platform. SmarterD unifies IT, security, and compliance data across existing enterprise systems. Post-acquisition, the SmarterD brand name will be retained, and the company will operate within Ampcus's cybersecurity and risk management division.

SmarterD's platform addresses the critical enterprise challenge of data silos in IT and security operations. By providing real-time visibility, automated workflows, and actionable insights through a single intelligent interface, the platform enhances Ampcus's ability to deliver end-to-end cybersecurity and compliance solutions. This integration is designed to specifically benefit enterprise clients operating within heavily regulated industries.

Strategic Rationale

The acquisition directly aligns with Ampcus's core strategy to expand its cybersecurity and AI-driven security offerings amid rising enterprise demand for integrated risk management solutions. SmarterD's technology complements Ampcus's established portfolio of digital transformation, infrastructure management, and testing services.

Mike Santos, CEO of SmarterD:

"This acquisition marks an important milestone for SmarterD and our customers. Ampcus's global reach, deep enterprise relationships, and commitment to innovation will enable us to scale our platform faster and deliver even greater value to organizations managing complex IT and security environments. While I will be stepping away from day-to-day operations, I'm confident that the SmarterD team and our technology will thrive under Ampcus's leadership.

We're proud to retain the SmarterD name and continue serving our customers with the same dedication and excellence they've come to expect."

Salil Sankaran, President of Ampcus Inc.:

"SmarterD's AI-powered data convergence platform is exactly what the market needs right now. As enterprises face increasingly complex cybersecurity and compliance challenges, having a unified view of IT and security data is no longer optional—it's essential. This acquisition strengthens our cybersecurity practice and gives our clients a powerful new tool to reduce risk, improve operational efficiency, and accelerate their digital transformation journeys. We're thrilled to welcome the SmarterD team to the Ampcus family."
