

Penny Bonnie Moore Signs Across the Board with Daniel Hoff Agency

11-Year-Old Actress, Singer and Model Signs with Laura LaCombe at the Daniel Hoff Agency for Theatrical, Commercial, Print and Voiceover Representation

LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, August 25, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Rising young actress, singer and model Penny Bonnie Moore has signed with Daniel Hoff Agency, where she will be represented by agent Laura LaCombe across theatrical, commercial, print and voiceover.

The signing marks the latest step for the 11-year-old performer as she continues building a multifaceted career across acting, singing and modeling. Moore developed an interest in entertainment at an early age, with music and performance playing an important role in her childhood. Watching Sabrina Carpenter on Disney Channel's Girl Meets World was an early inspiration, helping Moore envision the possibility of pursuing acting professionally herself.

That interest has since developed into a serious commitment to her craft.

Most recently, Moore starred as Willy Wonka in a production of Wonka JR., a role that required months of preparation and allowed her to combine acting, singing and character work.

"I am really passionate and want to pursue this dream," Moore said. "I am confident about my dreams and doing the work to make it come true."

Her signing with Daniel Hoff Agency gives Moore representation across multiple areas of the entertainment industry as she continues developing her professional résumé and pursuing opportunities in television, film, commercials, print and voiceover.

Founded by Daniel Hoff in 1992, Daniel Hoff Agency is a boutique talent agency with offices in Los Angeles, New York and Atlanta. The agency represents emerging and established performers across film, television, commercials, print, voiceover, influencer opportunities and celebrity endorsements. LaCombe has been with Daniel Hoff Agency since 2004 and has built her career around talent representation and the development of performers.

For Moore, the breadth of her new representation reflects her own versatility as a young performer. In addition to acting and singing, she plays violin and has interests in modeling, volleyball, swimming and horseback riding. Her professional ambitions are centered on television and film, with the goal of eventually becoming a series regular or taking on a starring role in a feature film. Over the coming year, she hopes to continue developing her craft while beginning to build professional credits under her new representation.

Moore recently expanded her industry experience through iPOP!, where she performed and competed in front of entertainment professionals and received recognition during the event's final awards gala, including an award in the TV Beauty category. The experience was another step in a journey Moore has approached with a simple personal reminder whenever she faces a new challenge: "I've got this."

With LaCombe and Daniel Hoff Agency now representing her across theatrical, commercial, print and voiceover, Moore enters the next stage of her career focused on turning her early passion for performing into professional opportunities.
