

Angela Dawn Launches Get Closer Collective, Bringing Ongoing Support to Couples Who Want to Stay Connected

The Annapolis-based relationship coach is replacing one-and-done couples' growth with a monthly membership built around connection, coaching, and community

LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, August 26, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Couples schedule meetings, workouts, children's activities, and date nights, but when life gets busy, intentional connection can be the first thing to disappear. Angela Dawn, author and relationship coach, wants to change that.

She is launching the Get Closer Collective, a monthly membership designed to help couples make connection an ongoing practice rather than something they revisit only during a weekend retreat or occasional workshop.

"Most relationship education happens in moments—a weekend retreat or a single workshop that creates a powerful opening, only for everyday life to rush back in," explains Dawn. "The Get Closer Collective was created to fill that gap by giving couples a recurring rhythm of connection, ongoing coaching, and a community of like-minded people, so their growth becomes a sustained practice instead of a one-time experience."

The first cohort begins Sunday, September 20, 2026, with enrollment open through September 20.

"Couples don't struggle because they don't love each other," says Dawn. "They struggle because life gets loud, and connection is the first thing to fall off the calendar. The Collective gives them a rhythm to keep coming back to each other; on purpose."

For $108 per couple per month, founding members will participate in a recurring 90-minute live online session featuring embodiment practices, group check-ins, relationship and intimacy education, live couples coaching, and guided partner connection exercises. Members will also receive access to a private community, direct access to Dawn between calls, exclusive content, an annual online couples date night, and discounts on her in-person workshops and retreats.

“This is an important investment for couples who want to get closer, maintain their intimacy, and continue growing together. Relationships need ongoing attention, and the Get Closer Collective gives couples a dedicated space to nurture that connection month after month,” Dawn says.

The model expands on Dawn's existing Get Closer couples work by creating a space where couples can continue practicing what they learn instead of returning home from a powerful experience and trying to maintain the momentum alone.

“There’s something powerful about growing alongside other couples who share your commitment to love,” Dawn concludes. “That sense of community can make the journey feel less isolating and the growth more sustainable.”
