The Inc. 5000 measures verified revenue growth over a three-year period and is widely regarded as one of the most credible benchmarks of sustained business performance in the private sector. Companies that earn a place on the list join a long legacy of industry leaders including Under Armour, Meta, Zillow, and Microsoft. Inc. 5000 Honorees leveraged their core strengths to drive remarkable outcomes while navigating political headwinds, rapid innovation, and economic uncertainty.

Inclusion on the Inc. 5000 is rare. Of the millions of private companies operating in the United States, fewer than five thousand earn this recognition in any given year.

“This recognition reflects the hard work of our dedicated legal team – each and every team member contributed to this honor. And we certainly wouldn't have achieved this award without the thousands of Marylanders who placed their trust in our law firm,” said Adam Smallow, founder of Adam Smallow Injury Lawyers. “What started as a solo practice in a small townhouse in the city of Baltimore over a decade ago has grown into a cutting-edge legal business that genuinely serves our clients and their communities every day. Being recognized alongside some of the most dynamic companies in the country is both humbling and motivating.”

The firm's inclusion on the Inc. 5000 follows a period of significant investment in team, technology, and marketing infrastructure — positioning Adam Smallow Injury Lawyers for continued growth in the years ahead.
