

LAURIE M. CLARK INDUCTED INTO WXN HALL OF FAME

Fourth Canada's Most Powerful Women: Top 100™ win recognizes sustained leadership across finance, technology, entrepreneurship and governance

TORONTO, ONTARIO, CANADA, September 9, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Canadian entrepreneur, finance executive, board director and technology innovator Laurie M. Clark has been inducted into the WXN Top 100 Hall of Fame following her fourth Canada's Most Powerful Women: Top 100™ Award.

Clark, named a 2026 Top 100 winner by WXN Media, was previously recognized in 2017, 2019 and 2022. Her fourth win earns her induction into the Hall of Fame and recognizes sustained leadership across a career spanning capital markets, financial services, technology, entrepreneurship and corporate governance.

"Being recognized once is an honour. Being recognized four times, across very different chapters of a career, means something more," said Clark. "I'm incredibly honoured by this recognition. A fourth Top 100 award and induction into the Hall of Fame is not something I ever anticipated. I've had a career filled with extraordinary opportunities, great people, difficult challenges and more than a few reinventions. I'm proud of what I've accomplished, but just as excited about what I'm building today and what comes next."

Clark currently leads three national and international Canadian ventures: Onyen Corporation, a technology company providing risk, sustainability and compliance reporting solutions; Canchek Corporation, a Canadian AML/KYC, sanctions and electronic identity-verification platform; and

Laurie M Clark, Founder, Director and CEO, WXN Hall of Fame

Smarten Up Institute, which provides professional education and compliance training to financial-industry professionals.

Her career has included building, scaling, acquiring and exiting businesses; leading more than $1 billion in financings; completing corporate acquisitions and transactions; and serving on public and private boards across capital markets, technology, financial services, real estate development, mechanical services, construction, mining and energy.

Clark's current businesses reflect an increasing convergence between technology, regulation and risk. Onyen helps organizations manage complex reporting requirements; Canчек provides technology for financial-crime compliance and identity verification; and Smarten Up Institute helps financial professionals understand regulatory obligations and the business realities behind them.

"Technology changes quickly. Trust, judgment, data quality and accountability do not," Clark said. "Those principles have followed me from capital markets into every company I have built."

Clark divides her time between Toronto and British Columbia while leading businesses headquartered in Toronto and working with clients and partners across Canada and internationally.
