The services provided at LMG Artistry encompass body contouring, aimed at fat reduction and skin tightening. Additionally, Lauren addresses concerns such as bursitis, tendinitis, and tennis elbow for clients experiencing sports-related discomfort. She employs advanced equipment that utilizes technology previously proprietary to BTL, with the capability to manage radiofrequency output when the focus is exclusively on fat loss. These treatments are designed to require no downtime, allowing clients to resume their daily activities, including work, sports, or exercise, immediately.

Lauren also works with clients both pre- and post-surgery, offering treatments that complement physical therapy and support overall recovery. This comprehensive approach has resonated with clients, reflected in the regular thank-you notes and positive feedback received by the practice.
