proud to announce that it has once again been named one of Minnesota's Best Places to Work by the Minneapolis/St. Paul Business Journal. This marks the fourth consecutive year TPI Hospitality has earned this prestigious recognition.

“Being Minnesota's best place to work is not about great hotels and restaurants in great locations; it's about amazing people focused on helping others succeed. When we look beyond our day-to-day operations, it's clear that the TPI family understands the value of being Humble, Empathetic, Accountable, Respectful and Trustworthy. We're not perfect, but when we live our core values, vision and purpose, we're unstoppable,” said Pete Bromelkamp, Chief Human Resources Officer at TPI Hospitality. “Receiving this recognition for a fourth consecutive year confirms that the care our team members demonstrate each day has a lasting impact.”

TPI Hospitality's workplace culture is grounded in collaboration, accountability and a shared commitment to creating win-win outcomes. By investing in its people and encouraging team members to learn, lead and grow, the company has created an environment where individuals can build rewarding careers while contributing to something greater than themselves.

The recognition also reflects TPI Hospitality's belief that exceptional guest experiences begin with exceptional employee experiences. When team members feel valued and supported, that care extends naturally to guests, business partners and the communities TPI Hospitality serves.

“This award belongs to every member of the TPI family,” said Bromelkamp. “It represents thousands of everyday moments when our team members choose to help one another, solve challenges together and lead with genuine care. We are incredibly proud of what we have built, and we remain committed to making TPI an even better place to work in the years ahead.”

TPI Hospitality is honored to celebrate this achievement alongside its team members and fellow organizations recognized as Minnesota's Best Places to Work.
