

XentraView Launches Integrated Research and Investment Services (RIS) and Business Development Support Services Platform

XentraView launches an integrated RIS and BDS platform supporting investment research, deal sourcing, financial analysis, and business growth.

PUNE, INDIA, August 27, 2026

/EINPresswire.com/ -- XentraView, a global Knowledge Process Outsourcing (KPO) and Strategic Business Solutions company, has launched an integrated

Research & Investment Services (RIS) and Business Development Support (BDS) platform to help investment firms, financial institutions, consulting organizations, and growth-focused enterprises improve execution capacity and scale more efficiently.

Organizations need more than outsourced research—they need a strategic partner capable of transforming information into actionable intelligence and measurable business outcomes.”

XentraView*

The platform brings together research, financial analytics, transaction support, market intelligence, deal sourcing, lead generation, investor outreach, and business development capabilities through a flexible delivery model.

As organizations face increasing pressure to evaluate opportunities faster, execute complex transactions, expand into new markets, and build predictable growth pipelines, XentraView provides research-driven intelligence and execution support across the business and investment lifecycle.

Research & Investment Services

XentraView's RIS platform supports investment professionals from opportunity identification to portfolio value creation.

Key capabilities include:

Deal sourcing and target identification
Industry and market research
Company and investor profiling
Competitive landscaping and benchmarking
Investment memorandum development
Due diligence research support
Financial modelling and valuation
DCF, LBO, merger, and operational models
Portfolio monitoring and reporting
Market intelligence and strategic research
Exit readiness and risk analytics

The integrated model is designed to help investment teams increase research capacity, reduce turnaround time, and improve the quality and consistency of analytical deliverables.

Business Development Support

Through its BDS platform, XentraView helps organizations build scalable business development and revenue-generation pipelines.

Services include:

Company database building
Prospect research and lead generation
Contact discovery
CRM data management
LinkedIn and email outreach support
Investor outreach
Fundraising research
Strategic account mapping
Competitive intelligence
Appointment-setting support

By combining market intelligence with structured outreach execution, XentraView helps internal teams focus on building relationships and converting business while also increasing their operational capacity.

Flexible Engagement Models

XentraView provides multiple engagement options based on client requirements, including dedicated analyst support, project-based engagements, retainer-based support, virtual research teams, offshore delivery centers, and customized research programs.

The company combines experienced professionals with technology-enabled workflows, AI-assisted research, analytics, and structured quality-control processes to deliver consistent and client-specific outcomes.

“Organizations need more than outsourced research—they need a strategic partner capable of transforming information into actionable intelligence and measurable business outcomes,” said Nitin Sirsat, Founder & CEO of XentraView.

XentraView aims to become a trusted global knowledge partner for organizations seeking research-driven intelligence, financial expertise, and scalable execution capabilities.
