American IRA Hosts Kyle Moody for Webinar on Using LLCs Within a Self-Directed IRA

Learn when an LLC may make sense within a Self-Directed IRA and the rules investors should understand before using one.

SIOUX FALLS, SD, UNITED STATES, September 29, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- American IRA announced that it will host an upcoming educational webinar featuring Kyle Moody, focused on using Limited Liability Companies (LLCs) within Self-Directed IRAs.

During the webinar, Moody will explain when an LLC may provide additional flexibility, when one may be unnecessary, and the limited circumstances in which an LLC structure may be required. The session will also clarify why most Self-Directed IRA investments can be completed without establishing an LLC.

The discussion will explore important considerations for properly structuring an IRA-owned LLC, including single-member and multi-member LLCs, eligible participants, funding and vesting requirements, and the movement of funds. Attendees will also gain insight into LLC formation and dissolution and the responsibilities that continue after the entity has been established.

The session is intended to help Self-Directed IRA investors better understand how LLC structures work, where they may fit within an investment strategy, and the rules that should be considered to avoid prohibited transactions and other compliance concerns.
