

RN MEDFLIGHTS LLC Offers Families a Nurse-Escorted Alternative to $150,000 Air Ambulance Flights

Veteran-owned medical escort company transports patients on commercial airlines with a licensed RN, with domestic transports averaging $6,500–$8,500

LOS ANGELES , CA, UNITED STATES, August 28, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- When a loved one needs to travel a long distance for medical reasons, most families hear only one option: a private air ambulance jet. For many, the quote that follows — often $150,000 or more for a single flight — ends the conversation before it begins. RN MEDFLIGHTS LLC, a veteran-owned commercial airline medical escort company based in San Antonio, Texas, is working to change that by putting licensed registered nurses beside patients on regular commercial flights.

For medically stable, non-emergency patients, an RN-escorted commercial flight delivers professional clinical supervision at a fraction of air ambulance pricing. Domestic escort transports with RN MEDFLIGHTS LLC average $6,500 to $8,500, while international transports range from $11,000 to $30,000, depending on the patient's needs, ground transportation requirements, and the cost of the airline tickets. The company also offers 0% financing on approved credit, allowing families to arrange transport without draining savings or delaying a needed move.

A Complete Door-to-Door, Bed-to-Bed Service

Every RN MEDFLIGHTS LLC transport is coordinated from the patient's current bed to the receiving bed at the destination. That includes pickup at the patient's home or hospital, ground transportation to the airport, all airline logistics and special assistance arrangements, continuous in-flight nursing care, and delivery to the receiving facility or residence at the other end.

The nurse escort manages medications, mobility assistance, oxygen coordination where required, and the patient's overall comfort and safety throughout the journey — so family members can travel as family, or stay home knowing their loved one is in professional hands.

"Most families facing a long-distance medical transport are quoted air ambulance prices they simply cannot afford, and many never learn there is a safe, medically supervised alternative," said Marc Brinsley, MSN, BSN, RN, founder and CEO of RN MEDFLIGHTS LLC and a retired U.S. Army combat veteran. "For stable, non-emergency patients, flying commercially with a licensed nurse at their side delivers the same peace of mind at a fraction of the cost."

Who Uses a Commercial Airline Medical Escort

RN MEDFLIGHTS LLC serves all 50 U.S. states and destinations worldwide. Common transports include:

Elderly parents relocating across the country to live near adult children
Patients traveling home after surgery or an extended hospital stay
Individuals with dementia or memory-care needs who cannot safely fly alone
Medical repatriation of travelers who fell ill or were injured abroad
Snowbirds and long-distance movers who need clinical support in transit

For patients who cannot sit upright for takeoff and landing, RN MEDFLIGHTS LLC also arranges commercial airline stretcher service on select international airlines and routes, providing a bed-bound transport option that still avoids the cost of a dedicated air ambulance jet.

"Every transport starts with a nursing assessment," Brinsley added. "We look at the patient's condition, medications, mobility, and oxygen needs, and we build the entire itinerary around what keeps that patient safe and comfortable. That is the difference a nurse-founded company makes."

Bringing Military Discipline to Patient Transport

As a veteran-owned company founded by a retired U.S. Army combat veteran who holds MSN, BSN, and RN credentials, RN MEDFLIGHTS LLC approaches each transport with detailed mission planning: contingencies for delays, coordination between sending and receiving facilities, and clear communication with families at every stage of the journey.

Families and case managers can request a quote by phone or through the company's website, and most transports can be arranged quickly once the patient's medical information is reviewed.
