CROATIA, September 9, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Meet Croatia, a newly developed digital travel platform, has officially launched to connect international travelers directly with local Croatian tourism providers. Co-founded by maritime captain Orlando Horvat and software entrepreneur Filip Perkov, the platform is designed to consolidate Croatia's highly fragmented tourism market into a single, unified digital ecosystem.

While Croatia features over 1,200 islands and a rapidly growing tourism sector, discovering and booking local services often requires navigating multiple disjointed channels. Meet Croatia addresses this by providing a centralized marketplace where users can search for and book accommodations, marine charters, local dining, and specialized tours in one place.

The development of the platform combines two distinct areas of professional expertise:

Industry Insight: Co-founder Orlando Horvat brings over 15 years of international experience as a luxury superyacht captain, providing insight into the operational standards of high-end travel and local maritime logistics.

Technological Infrastructure: Co-founder Filip Perkov, owner of the Croatian software company Immense, leads the technological development, ensuring a scalable and secure digital environment for both users and service providers.

“Croatia has an extraordinary tourism offering, but it is still highly fragmented,” states Filip Perkov. “The goal with Meet Croatia is to build a serious digital platform that brings those experiences together and makes the entire journey simpler for the guest—from discovering a destination and finding the right service to sending an inquiry or making a reservation.”

“That experience showed me just how much Croatia has to offer beyond the places most visitors already know,” adds Orlando Horvat. “Meet Croatia gives us an opportunity to make that side of the country much easier to discover for international guests, while providing local businesses with a streamlined channel to present their services.”

Through the platform, visitors currently gain access to a growing selection of localized services:

Yachting & Boat Rentals: Direct access to marine vessels ranging from local speedboats for day trips to luxury yachts and sailing boats for extended itineraries.

Tours & Experiences: Listings for private island tours, outdoor adventures, cultural excursions, and activities operated by local providers.

Gastronomy: A directory of traditional konobas (taverns), local restaurants, and specialized dining and tasting experiences across the country.

Accommodation: Search and booking capabilities for seaside apartments, boutique lodging, and private villas.

Developed entirely by the software team at Immense, Meet Croatia is currently onboarding new local partners across the country. The long-term objective of the company is to serve as a comprehensive digital travel companion, streamlining how visitors discover, organize, and experience the Adriatic coast.
