

IML Security Rebrands as Summit Access & Security LLC, Reflecting 30 Years of Growth Across the Northeast & Mid-Atlantic

New brand reflects the company's evolution into a full-service provider of automated doors, access control and physical security solutions

FARMINGDALE, NY, UNITED STATES,

August 31, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- IML Security, a full-service provider of access control and physical security solutions serving industries including financial institutions, healthcare facilities, schools and commercial properties, announced it has rebranded as Summit Access & Security LLC. The new name better describes the company today, which has grown from a local locksmith into a premiere provider of automated doors, access control and physical security solutions throughout the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic.

It's the same company our customers have trusted for decades, with a name that clearly reflects the work we do every day.”

*Sean O'Hayre, CEO &
President of Summit Access & Security*

Founded more than 30 years ago as Island Master Locksmith, the company grew into IML Security as its services expanded beyond traditional locksmithing into door maintenance, access control, vault and safe systems, drive-up banking equipment, storefront glass, cash handling systems and multi-facility security preventative maintenance. Today, the company supports thousands of customer locations, including major financial institutions, with a team of more than 50 technicians and staff working from Maine to Virginia.

"Summit Access & Security says complete control of who gets in, protecting what's inside, and holding the highest standard doing it," Sean O'Hayre, CEO & President of Summit Access & Security explains. "It's the same company our customers have trusted for decades, with a name that clearly reflects the work we do every day."

The rebrand includes a new name, logo and visual identity, but no change in ownership, leadership or the customer service teams already work with day to day. Customers will continue working with the same people and receiving the same exceptional service.

"This new name is about clarity, not change," said O'Hayre. "For over 30 years, our customers have trusted us with the things they can't afford to lose like their vault access, their entryways and their cash handling operations. 'Locksmith' stopped describing the full scope of what we do a long time ago. Summit Access & Security LLC tells people what to expect and what we deliver – automated door programs, access control and security programs they can rely on, backed by the same people who have always answered the call. The name on the door is new. What it stands for is over 30 years old and still growing!"
