I often compare a hotel to an orchestra. Every person has an essential role, and only when everyone performs together can we create something truly memorable.”

Pierre Kermanac'h

announces the appointment of Pierre Kermanac'h as General Manager. A respected Four Seasons leader, Pierre brings more than 22 years of international luxury hospitality experience across Europe, Africa and the United States to one of the brand's most established hotels in the country.

Joining Four Seasons Hotel Atlanta from Four Seasons Resort Palm Beach, where he served as Resort Manager, Pierre brings experience spanning Food and Beverage, Sales, Rooms, Private Residences and resort operations. A Paris native, he began his Four Seasons career in 2004, embarking on an international path that would take him from Chicago and Geneva to Four Seasons Hotel George V, Paris, where he was promoted to Director of Rooms. He later joined Four Seasons Resort Marrakech and was named Resort Manager in 2019 before relocating to Palm Beach. That breadth of experience, spanning eight Four Seasons properties and three continents, has shaped a leadership style centered on developing exceptional teams and delivering highly personalized hospitality. At its core is the belief that memorable service begins with people, both those who provide it and those who experience it.

"I often compare a hotel to an orchestra," says Pierre. "Every person has an essential role, and only when everyone performs together can we create something truly memorable. My responsibility is to help our team succeed because our guests ultimately feel the difference."

As General Manager, he will oversee all hotel operations, leading the team to continue delivering the exceptional service and hospitality that have long defined Four Seasons Hotel Atlanta.

"What has impressed me most from my first days at Four Seasons Hotel Atlanta is the pride, expertise and genuine care of the people who bring the hotel to life every day," he adds. "Luxury is not simply about beautiful surroundings. It is about how people make you feel, and I look forward to building on that culture while continuing to raise the guest experience."

Located in the heart of Midtown, Four Seasons Hotel Atlanta continues to welcome locals and guests from around the world with Brasserie Margot, Bar Margot, The Spa and the intuitive, personalized service that has defined the hotel for more than three decades. Under Pierre's leadership, the hotel will continue building on that legacy while embracing its next chapter as one of Atlanta's most celebrated luxury destinations.
