

The Law Offices of Justin H. King Celebrates 10 Years as a Rancho Cucamonga Personal Injury Law Firm

Personal injury law firm with deep Inland Empire roots marks a decade representing car accident, wrongful death and serious injury clients.

RANCHO CUCAMONGA, CA, UNITED STATES, August 31, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Law Offices of Justin H. King is celebrating its 10th anniversary this month, marking a decade since attorney Justin H. King opened a small law practice in Rancho Cucamonga that has since grown into a three-attorney family-run personal injury firm.

Today, Justin practices alongside his brothers, Jonathan L. King and Oliver P. King. The firm represents clients in car and other motor-vehicle accidents, wrongful-death matters, motorcycle and truck collisions, premises-liability cases, dangerous conditions of public property, catastrophic injuries and other personal injury claims throughout the Inland Empire and Southern California.

"I want to grow; I want to serve more people," Justin King said in an anniversary interview. "However, I never want to lose that personal touch."

That philosophy dates to the firm's earliest days. When King opened the practice in August 2016, he worked from a one-room subleased office with a laptop and two chairs for clients. Office calls were routed directly to his cell phone, and he handled nearly every aspect of the practice himself.

The Law Offices of Justin H. King celebrates 10 years in Rancho Cucamonga. Justin, Jonathan and Oliver King represent clients in car accidents, wrongful death and other serious personal injury cases across Southern California and the Inland Empire.

One of King's earliest prospective clients came after a car accident. His first son had been born the previous day, but King left the hospital and drove to a McDonald's in Upland to meet a prospective client who had been involved in what he remembers as a relatively minor rear-end collision.

"I was out on my own and I had to hustle," King recalled. "I felt like I had to do everything I could to ensure that my new endeavor was successful."

Car and motor-vehicle accidents remain a major part of the firm's practice 10 years later, while The Law Offices of Justin H. King also represents clients in wrongful death, trucking and commercial-vehicle collisions, motorcycle and bus accidents, pedestrian and bicycle injuries, premises liability, traumatic brain injuries, spinal injuries and other serious personal injury matters.

Experience on Both Sides of Personal Injury Litigation:

One aspect of Justin King's professional background is his prior experience representing defendants before focusing his practice on injured plaintiffs.

King began his career in plaintiff-side class-action litigation and later worked in insurance defense. Super Lawyers reports that he defended numerous personal-injury matters through trial during that period.

King said the experience gave him insight into how injury claims may be evaluated from the defense side, including how information is communicated between defense counsel and insurance carriers and how an insurer's assessment may evolve as evidence is developed and a case approaches trial.

That perspective now informs the firm's work for injured clients, particularly in motor-vehicle and serious injury cases involving disputed liability, medical causation, insurance coverage or significant long-term damages.

The firm's automobile-insurance litigation has also included the pending matter Cobos, et al. v. National General Insurance Company, et al., San Bernardino County Superior Court Case No. CIVDS1914609, which was the subject of California Court of Appeal Case No. G063086.

According to the published Court of Appeal opinion, the plaintiffs allege that National General Insurance Company and Integon National Insurance Company improperly denied automobile accident claims and rescinded insurance policies. The Court of Appeal reversed an earlier order denying class certification and remanded the matter for further proceedings.

According to an April 2026 class-certification order entered by the San Bernardino County Superior Court, the court granted class certification and designated attorneys Justin King and Jonathan King of The Law Offices of Justin H. King as Class Counsel. The case remains pending. According to the court-authorized class notice, defendants deny the allegations and dispute liability. Trial is currently scheduled for March 1, 2027.

Three Brothers, Different Backgrounds, One Personal Injury Team:

The firm's development took another step when Justin's brothers joined the practice.

Jonathan L. King's background includes complex commercial litigation and extensive courtroom work. His current firm biography reports that he has litigated 17 jury trials and more than 40 bench trials to verdict.

Oliver P. King's work includes personal injury, mass torts, class actions and other complex plaintiff-side litigation. He has also served as an NFLPA Certified Contract Advisor, representing professional athletes in contract negotiations.

All three King brothers are recognized in the 2027 edition of The Best Lawyers in America® for Personal Injury Litigation – Plaintiffs. Justin and Oliver are additionally recognized for Mass Tort Litigation / Class Actions – Plaintiffs.

The Law Offices of Justin H. King is also ranked Tier 1 in the Inland Empire for Personal Injury Litigation – Plaintiffs and Tier 2 in the Inland Empire for Mass Tort Litigation / Class Actions – Plaintiffs in the 2026 edition of Best Law Firms®.

A Legal Legacy With Deep Inland Empire Roots:

Although The Law Offices of Justin H. King is celebrating its first decade, the King family's connection to Rancho Cucamonga and the Inland Empire reaches back more than a century.

Justin's grandfather, John Lewis King, became a prominent San Bernardino attorney and in 1953 became the first attorney from San Bernardino County inducted into the American College of Trial Lawyers.

Both of Justin King's parents also pursued legal careers. Pamela King practiced as a prosecutor, civil attorney and public defender before serving as a San Bernardino County Superior Court judge. Jeffrey King practiced law before serving on the Superior Court and later on the California Court of Appeal.

Following John Lewis King's death, members of the regional legal community established the John Lewis King Memorial Scholarship Fund to assist Inland Empire law students.

Today, Justin, Jonathan and Oliver practice together in Rancho Cucamonga, continuing a family connection to the region that began generations before the current firm was founded.

Entering a Second Decade:

For Justin King, the firm's 10-year milestone is an opportunity to reflect on how the practice has evolved while continuing the approach that led him to open his own office in 2016.

The firm now includes three attorneys with different litigation backgrounds, greater resources and substantial outside professional recognition. King said the central responsibility remains the same: prepare clients' cases thoroughly and remain personally invested in the people the firm represents.

"I always want to be providing clients the best service and the best outcomes, not just making a living," King said.

The Law Offices of Justin H. King enters its second decade representing individuals and families after car accidents, wrongful deaths, motorcycle and truck collisions, catastrophic injuries, dangerous-property incidents and other serious accidents throughout Rancho Cucamonga, the Inland Empire and Southern California.
