WASHINGTON, DC, UNITED STATES, August 31, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Season 2 of Dupont

After years of building toward Flight of the Fallen, tomorrow it finally belongs to the listeners, and I hope it haunts them long after the last episode ends.”

Dupont Investigations co-creator and showrunner.*

Investigations, Flight of the Fallen, arrives tomorrow, Tuesday, September 1, streaming everywhere you listen to podcasts. After a debut season spotlighted by Washingtonian, Nocturne Hall returns to its 1936 Washington, the “District of Crime,” for a darker and more ambitious mystery.

In Flight of the Fallen, occult private investigator Torsten Somersby is engaged by Christian Heurich, the celebrated brewmaster who was, after the federal government, Washington's largest employer. Something has followed the old world into the new: a winged creature whose story begins in the Austrian Alps in 1861. As it preys on the city, Torsten and his partner Nigel Clemmons trace its path through the shadows of 1936 Washington, from Heurich's Foggy Bottom brewery to the truth behind "the fallen."

New listeners can start tonight. Season 1, The Scourge from Carthage, runs six episodes and has earned more than 24,500 IAB Tech Lab-certified downloads. Newcomers can also explore the show's hand-annotated visual case file to meet the world of the series before pressing play. The official Season 2 trailer is included with this release.

“It's the night before, and I can hardly believe it,” said Marc Benjamin Langston, Dupont Investigations co-creator and showrunner. “After years of building toward Flight of the Fallen, tomorrow it finally belongs to the listeners, and I hope it haunts them long after the last episode ends.”
