

Travel Time Agency Announces New St. John's Location to Better Serve Growing Client Base

The family-run travel agency relocates to New Cove Road, bringing its team together as demand for personalized travel planning grows.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND, CANADA, September 1, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Travel Time Agency has announced it is relocating to 119 New Cove Rd, Suite 302, St. John's, NL A1A 2C5. Owner Lois Barbour said the new office was chosen to support the way the agency's team works together as the business has grown.

Barbour entered the travel industry in 2005 under host agency Travel Professionals International and built Travel Time Agency from there over the following two decades. A Sandals Resort stay in 2007, two years into her career, shaped much of the agency's current focus: Barbour has since specialized in destination weddings and honeymoons, working to help other couples create similar experiences. She holds the Certified Travel Counsellor and Master Cruise Counsellor designations and is the only Sandals Chairman's Royal Club member in Newfoundland.

The agency's advisors handle a range of travel planning. Cruises and all-inclusive resort bookings make up a steady part of the work. Destination weddings and multi-generational family trips, which tend to involve more logistics such as group accommodations, vendor coordination, and travel advisories for multiple destinations, have become a larger share of the business over the past several years. The new office gives the team a larger space to work through these details together as the agency continues to grow.

"Having this space makes it easier for our team to work through the details together, especially on trips with a lot of moving parts," said Lois Barbour, owner of Travel Time Agency. "It's a space that reflects how much the business has grown and helps us keep that same level of care for every client."

Clients continue to reach the agency the same way they always have. Phone, email, and text remain the primary ways the team works with clients, and existing bookings and itineraries are not affected by the relocation.
