

RODOPI Holding and EarthStream Global Announce Pioneering Joint Venture

BROMLEY, GREATER LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, September 1, 2026 /EINPressWire.com/ -- RODOPI Holding and EarthStream Global have announced a new joint venture combining specialist wind industry services with global recruitment and workforce expertise. The partnership is unique within the industry, bringing together a wind service provider and recruitment agency to create an integrated service model for the wind energy sector.

What Does the Joint Venture Combine?

RODOPI and EarthStream Global bring together their sales teams, industry networks, and commercial capabilities under the new structure. RODOPI contributes specialist wind service delivery. EarthStream Global contributes global recruitment reach, workforce mobilisation expertise, and direct access to skilled wind sector talent across its established Onshore Wind and Offshore Wind specialisms. Together, the two organisations extend market reach, sharpen responsiveness, and shorten the path between client need and available skilled resource.

“

This joint venture marks an important step forward for EarthStream Global, enabling us to move beyond traditional recruitment and mobilisation to support the full project lifecycle.”

Liam Wreford

What Will the Partnership Deliver for Clients?

Clients gain one route into recruitment, workforce mobilisation, specialist personnel and full scope-of-works delivery, rather than managing separate suppliers for each. The model simplifies project delivery without cutting the scale, technical expertise or operational capacity that large wind projects need.

Why Does This Partnership Matter for the Wind Sector?

Combined expertise and expanded resource availability give clients an edge neither organisation could offer alone. The joint venture strengthens the market position of both RODOPI and EarthStream Global, and sets a new benchmark for integrated service delivery in the global wind energy industry.

Ercan Kara Osman, Managing Director at RODOPI Holding, said: "We are pleased to announce the joint venture between EarthStream Global and RODOPI Holding. By combining EarthStream Global's global expertise in recruitment and workforce solutions with RODOPI's extensive experience in renewable energy services, we are strengthening our long-term partnership and creating a closer collaboration between our two organisations. Our goal is to combine the expertise and capabilities of both companies to provide our customers with comprehensive, turnkey solutions across the renewable energy sector."

Liam Wreford, Associate Director at EarthStream Global, said: "This joint venture marks an important step forward for EarthStream Global, enabling us to move beyond traditional recruitment and mobilisation to support the full project lifecycle. By combining our global talent acquisition and workforce expertise with RODOPI's proven operational capabilities, we can help clients move more efficiently from workforce planning and recruitment through to on-site service delivery."
