Mt. Shasta Spiritual Tours Highlights 2026 Sacred Tours, Retreats, and Guided Activations

MT SHASTA, CA, UNITED STATES, September 3, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Mt. Shasta Spiritual Tours is highlighting its 2026 calendar of guided vortex tours, sacred missions, spiritual activations, and immersive retreats for seekers drawn to the energy and spiritual traditions of Mount Shasta. The company offers thoughtfully guided experiences that combine visits to sacred natural settings with meditation, ceremony, sound work, group reflection, and opportunities for personal transformation.

Paul of Venus serves as the primary guide for many Mt. Shasta Spiritual Tours experiences, with additional guides and facilitators accompanying selected tours and retreats. Having lived at the base of Mount Shasta for a decade, Paul brings extensive knowledge of the mountain's forests, waterways, trails, and spiritually significant locations. His approach is rooted in Ascended Master teachings, New Earth consciousness, and the metaphysical traditions that have long drawn spiritual seekers to the region.

Rather than following a fixed sightseeing itinerary, Mt. Shasta Spiritual Tours develops each experience around the intentions of the group, conditions on the mountain, and the locations that are most appropriate for the day. Participants may visit clearings, springs, forests, waterways, and other sacred settings associated with Mount Shasta's vortex and portal traditions.

Travelers who have studied energy vortex maps or read about Mount Shasta sacred sites can choose from several guided options. Mt. Shasta Spiritual Tours offers half-day group activations, multi-day retreats, New Earth initiations, and custom private missions for individuals, couples, and small groups. Depending on the selected experience, programming may include guided meditation, sound healing, vortex excursions, group ceremonies, sharing circles, periods of integration, and personal spiritual guidance.

The 2026 calendar includes the Sacred Rays of God Retreat, scheduled for September 11 through 14. Inspired by the teachings explored in Paul's book, The Sacred Rays of God, the retreat is designed to introduce participants to the spiritual qualities associated with the Seven Sacred Rays through guided practices and visits to locations on and around Mount Shasta.

"Every person comes to Mount Shasta with a different intention, question, or calling," said Paul of Venus, primary guide for Mt. Shasta Spiritual Tours. "Our role is not to force a predetermined experience. We listen to the group, remain attentive to the mountain, and create a space where each participant can connect with what is meaningful for their individual journey."

Paul is also featured in Call of the Mountain, a Gaia documentary examining the legends, spiritual teachings, and energy traditions associated with Mount Shasta. His participation introduces viewers to some of the principles and experiences that inform his work with Mt. Shasta Spiritual Tours.

Small group sizes remain central to the company's approach, allowing guides to provide attentive support while respecting the natural and spiritual character of each destination. Additional guides and facilitators may join Paul during retreats and specialized experiences, bringing complementary forms of knowledge, healing work, and group support to the journey.

Mt. Shasta Spiritual Tours operates under a special use permit with the Shasta-Trinity National Forest. Spiritual seekers interested in exploring Mount Shasta can review the company's current vortex tours, sacred missions, retreats, energy activations, and private booking options through the Mt. Shasta Spiritual Tours website.

The mountain does not need us to explain her power. She simply asks us to show up, open our hearts, and allow the transformation to begin. Every person who walks these vortex sites with us leaves carrying something they did not have before, a remembrance, a frequency, a sense of their own sovereign light.
