

FIVE AUDIO DRAMAS FOR YOUR LABOR DAY ROAD TRIP, FROM THE TEAM BEHIND DUPONT INVESTIGATIONS

With Season 2 of the D.C. occult-noir Dupont Investigations now streaming, Nocturne Hall shares a long-weekend listening list for the drive

WASHINGTON, DC, UNITED STATES, September 2, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- With Labor Day weekend here and millions of Americans hitting the road, Nocturne Hall, the studio behind the Washington occult-noir audio drama Dupont Investigations, is marking its Season 2 premiere by sharing five audio dramas worth queuing up for the long drive. Whether you are behind the wheel or strapped into a plane seat, these scripted series turn a travel day into an escape.

1. Dupont Investigations: Flight of the Fallen

Occult-noir audio drama set in 1936 Washington, D.C. Private investigator Torsten Somersby, hired by real-life brewmaster Christian Heurich, tracks a winged creature stalking the capital. Season 2 is streaming now, and Season 1 has topped 24,500 IAB Tech Lab-certified downloads and was spotlighted by Washingtonian.

2. Witchpunk

A cyberpunk audio-drama epic. In a 22nd-century America unraveling from climate collapse, street witches repurpose leaked quantum technology as magic while the crew of the landship Strega hauls a very strange cargo across a broken continent.

3. Your Horror Show

A horror anthology found only in your nightmares, hosted by the ghoulish Mr. Graves.

Flight of the Fallen Podcast Cover Art

Standalone tales of dread, ideal for doling out one white-knuckle episode per rest stop.

4. Tales from Beyond the Pale
Filmmakers Larry Fessenden and Glenn McQuaid (Glass Eye Pix) curate lavishly produced, half-hour horror tales written and directed by genre auteurs. Inspired by the vintage radio shows of yesteryear and now in its sixth season. Find it on Apple Podcasts and Spotify.

5. Tomorrow's Monsters
An immersive psychological sci-fi thriller starring John Boyega and Darren Criss. A conman infiltrates a Silicon Valley startup whose mind-app promises to end the need for sleep, until the human trials turn deadly. Available on iHeartRadio.

“Audio drama is having a real moment, and a long drive is the perfect way to fall into one,” said Marc Benjamin Langston, Dupont Investigations co-creator and showrunner. “We wanted to send people into the long weekend with a few of our favorites, ours included.”
