MURRAY, KY, UNITED STATES, September 3, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Mobility City Holdings, Inc. announced today that its rapidly expanding national mobility equipment service network has reached Western Kentucky with the opening of Mobility City of Murray showroom. Owned and operated by David and Elise Kohl, the new showroom at 1713 KY-121, Suite C, Murray, KY 42071, provides the community with a local resource for mobility equipment repair, rentals and sales. Customers can receive help with wheelchairs, power chairs, mobility scooters, recliner lift chairs, hospital beds, walkers and rollators, patient lifts and other equipment designed to keep people safe, active and independent. If a customer can't get to the showroom, trained technicians in branded vans make house calls for repairs, rentals, and sales.

But for Mobility City Holdings, Murray represents something larger than another store opening. It represents another step toward the company's goal of making professional mobility equipment service available locally across America.

The Murray Showroom with test track is stocked with power chairs, lift chairs, mobility scooters, rollators, walkers and more.

“Mobility equipment isn't simply a product when you depend on it to live your everyday life,” said Diane Baratta, CEO of Mobility City Holdings. “If your wheelchair or scooter stops working, you need somebody who answers the phone, understands the equipment and can help solve the problem. David and Elise are bringing that level of local responsibility to Western Kentucky.”

Mobility City currently operates more than 67 locations nationwide as it builds toward a long-term vision of approximately 300 territories providing national coverage across the United States. The strategy combines the resources, supplier relationships, training and service capabilities of a national organization with locally owned showrooms whose owners live and work in the communities they serve. For David and Elise Kohl, that combination was especially important.

“We want customers to know that when they walk through our door, they're going to meet people who listen, understand what they need and genuinely want to help,” said the Kohls. “Dependable service, clear communication and treating people the way we would want our own family treated are at the heart of what we're building here.”

The Murray showroom allows customers and caregivers to see mobility products firsthand, compare alternatives and receive guidance before choosing to buy mobility equipment. Mobility City technicians can also diagnose and repair many types and brands of mobility equipment, helping customers extend the useful life of products they already own. Rental equipment is available for customers recovering from surgery or injury, accommodating visiting family members, traveling, or dealing with a temporary mobility need. Should a customer need the service at home, the company can dispatch a technician in a branded van.

Mobility City's growing geographic footprint also supports healthcare organizations, facilities, the Veterans Administration, manufacturers and national accounts that increasingly need reliable mobility equipment repair service across multiple markets. “Every opening has two benefits,” Baratta said. “A community gets a local mobility resource, and our national network becomes stronger. Murray helps us close another geographic gap as we build toward coast-to-coast coverage.”
