

Tyrur Holdings Expands Investment Offering Across Stocks, ETFs, Bonds, Funds and Managed Portfolios

New investment capabilities give retail and professional clients broader access to international markets and professionally managed solutions

DUBLIN, IRELAND, September 2, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Tyrur Holdings Unlimited Company ("<https://tyrur.holdings/>") has expanded its investment offering, providing eligible retail and professional clients with access to stocks and shares, exchange-traded funds (ETFs), bonds, investment funds and professionally managed portfolio solutions across international markets.

The development broadens the range of investment options available within Tyrur's international financial network and gives clients greater flexibility in how they approach investing.

Clients can choose between managing investments themselves or accessing professionally managed strategies, depending on their objectives, experience and preferred level of involvement.

The expanded offering is supported by regulated investment, brokerage, settlement and custody infrastructure provided by licensed financial partners, including Upvest, allowing Tyrur to combine its client-facing investment experience with established financial-market infrastructure.

Stocks and Shares

Stocks remain one of the most widely used forms of long-term investment.

Tyrur provides access to international equity markets, allowing eligible clients to invest across companies and industries including technology, healthcare, financial services, energy, industrials, consumer goods, communications and other major sectors.

Rather than limiting clients to a single domestic market, the offering provides broader exposure to companies operating across the world's major economies.

Clients who prefer to select their own investments can research and build portfolios around companies, sectors and markets that match their own investment approach.

ETFs and Diversified Investing

Tyrur also offers access to exchange-traded funds, giving investors another way to participate in global markets.

ETFs can provide exposure to a group of securities through a single investment and may track major stock-market indices, particular countries, industries, investment themes or fixed-income markets.

They can be used as the foundation of a diversified portfolio or alongside individual shares, bonds and investment funds.

For investors who want broader market exposure without selecting every company individually, ETFs provide a straightforward alternative.

Bonds and Fixed Income

The investment offering extends beyond stocks.

Eligible clients can access government bonds, corporate bonds and other fixed-income investments, allowing portfolios to combine different types of assets and sources of potential income.

Bonds may play a role in portfolios focused on income, diversification or reducing reliance on equity markets.

Giving clients access to both shares and fixed-income investments allows Tyrur to support a wider range of investment strategies and objectives.

Investment Funds

Tyrur's offering also includes access to investment funds covering different markets, sectors and asset classes.

Professionally structured funds allow investors to gain exposure to portfolios of securities managed according to a defined investment strategy.

Used alongside stocks, ETFs and bonds, funds provide clients with additional ways to diversify their investments and allocate capital across different areas of the market.

Self-Directed Investing

Some clients want to remain directly involved in their investments.

Tyrur supports self-directed investing for eligible clients who prefer to research markets, select their own securities and decide when to buy or sell.

The digital investment experience is designed to allow clients to access available products, monitor portfolio holdings and manage investments within one connected environment.

Behind each securities transaction, regulated financial infrastructure supports execution, settlement and custody.

Professionally Managed Portfolios

For clients who prefer not to manage investments themselves, Tyrur also offers access to professionally managed portfolio solutions.

Managed portfolios can combine stocks, ETFs, bonds, funds and other eligible investments within strategies designed around defined investment objectives.

Day-to-day portfolio-management decisions are carried out by appropriately licensed investment professionals, allowing clients to participate in global markets without personally selecting and managing every position.

This gives Tyrur clients a choice between self-directed investing and professional portfolio management within the broader investment offering.

Trading, Settlement and Custody

A complete investment service requires considerably more than access to a trading screen. When securities are purchased or sold, orders must be executed, transactions settled and investments properly recorded and safeguarded.

Tyrur's investment offering is supported by regulated brokerage and custody infrastructure from licensed financial partners.

Upvest forms part of this infrastructure, supporting areas including brokerage, trade execution, settlement, securities custody and administration.

This structure allows Tyrur to focus on the client relationship and investment experience while the regulated financial functions behind securities transactions are carried out within appropriately authorised infrastructure.

Built for Retail and Professional Clients

Tyrur's expanded offering is designed to serve investors with different levels of experience and different financial objectives.

Retail clients can access international stocks, ETFs, bonds and investment funds, while professional and more experienced investors can make use of a wider range of market and portfolio capabilities.

Clients seeking professional management can also access managed portfolio solutions without needing to make day-to-day investment decisions themselves.
