

Vacancy Rewards Expands Into LATAM With AI-Powered Multi-Destination Travel Technology

Global travel platform expands across Latin America using AI-driven technology so travelers can compare destinations, simplify planning, and find greater value.

MIAMI, FL, UNITED STATES, September 2, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Vacancy Rewards, rated as one of the top booking platforms in the world, is expanding its reach throughout Latin America (LATAM), bringing its growing portfolio of travel technology, accommodations, activities, transportation options, and AI-powered multi-destination planning capabilities to more travelers across the region.

The expansion reflects Vacancy Rewards' continued focus on making travel planning easier, faster, and more cost-effective for travelers seeking both domestic and international vacation experiences.

At the center of the Vacancy Rewards platform is an increasingly sophisticated use of artificial intelligence designed to simplify what can often be a complicated planning process. Instead of searching multiple websites for different parts of a vacation, travelers can use Vacancy Rewards to explore accommodations and build more complex multi-destination trips while also considering the smaller details that can significantly affect both the experience and the overall vacation budget.

AI Makes Multi-Destination Travel Easier

Vacancy Rewards' AI-powered multi-destination features are designed for travelers who want to experience more than one city, resort area, or destination during the same vacation.

As stated by Jose Chavez of Vacancy Rewards, "Vacancy Rewards' newest technology helps streamline the research and planning process by bringing different elements of a trip together in one convenient environment. Travelers can spend less time jumping between booking websites and more time evaluating the experiences and destinations that fit their interests and budget."

That convenience can become particularly valuable when planning travel throughout Latin America, where a single vacation might include a major city, beach destination, cultural attraction, or resort community.

Vacancy Rewards also helps travelers look beyond accommodations to the smaller details that are frequently overlooked during the initial planning process.

Airport transfers, local transportation, sightseeing tours, excursions, attractions, and other destination experiences can all significantly affect a vacation's final cost and complexity. Providing access to these options within a broader travel platform can help travelers plan ahead, compare opportunities, and potentially avoid expensive last-minute decisions.

Expanding Opportunities Across Latin America

Latin America represents an important growth market for Vacancy Rewards as travelers continue looking for culturally diverse destinations, resort experiences, beaches, historic cities, culinary tourism, adventure travel, and greater overall vacation value.

The company's LATAM expansion is expected to provide greater visibility and access to destinations throughout Mexico, Central America, South America, and the Caribbean while connecting travelers with a wider selection of vacation possibilities.

The expansion also supports Vacancy Rewards' broader goal of becoming a comprehensive resource rather than simply another accommodation booking website.

From selecting where to stay to arranging an airport transfer, finding a local tour, or planning a multi-stop vacation, the platform is being developed around one simple idea: make travel easier while helping travelers make their vacation budgets go further.

As artificial intelligence continues transforming the global travel industry, Vacancy Rewards is positioning its technology around practical benefits for travelers—saving time, reducing planning complexity, identifying options across multiple destinations, and helping members discover more ways to maximize the value of each trip.

With continued international growth and an expanded focus on LATAM, Vacancy Rewards is entering its next stage of development with a combination of technology, destination access, convenience, and value designed for how today's travelers increasingly want to explore the
