

Eventeny Surpasses 1 Million Applications From Artists, Vendors, and Exhibitors

Having doubled its total applications processed since February 2025, Eventeny is rapidly gaining market share in the festivals and events industry.

ATLANTA, GA, UNITED STATES, September 2, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Eventeny, an event management platform used by organizers of festivals, fairs, markets, and conventions across North America, has processed more than 1 million applications from vendors, artists, and exhibitors. This milestone comes just 6 months after Eventeny officially became the largest vendor marketplace in the United States. Some of the acceleration is coming from large event producers joining the platform, including New Row Productions, which has scheduled 147 vendor events with Eventeny over the next year and a half.

Key Details:

- Eventeny has the largest vendor marketplace in the United States.
- Eventeny has processed 500,000 applications in the past 18 months alone and more than 1 million applications to date.
- Applications come from state and county fairs, art and maker markets, food and drink festivals, fan conventions, community events, and music festivals across all 50 states and in Canada.
- Every vendor, artist, and exhibitor who applies to sell, exhibit, or perform at an event hosted on Eventeny counts as an application.

"We wanted Eventeny to work just as well for the person submitting an application as the person reviewing it, because a million applications means a million creators finding new opportunities to share their work and grow their businesses," said Nausheen Punjani, Co-Founder and COO of Eventeny. "We've spent the past 8 years sitting down with vendors, artists, event organizers, and others in the community to understand their needs. Organizers are looking for the right creators, creators are looking for the right events, and we built Eventeny to be the matchmaker."

Quick facts:

How does Eventeny work with markets and vendor events?

Eventeny helps organizers of markets, fairs, and festivals create smart applications for vendors, artists, and exhibitors. After submission, organizers manage approvals, payments, jury scoring, and booth assignments from one platform instead of piecing together spreadsheets and forms.

How do vendors apply to sell at a market or festival through Eventeny?

Vendors submit an application through Eventeny for the specific market or festival they want to join, and organizers review and approve applications directly on the platform. Participants can view their application status live, track payment information, communicate with organizers, and manage an online store.

How does Eventeny help event organizers manage vendors, artists and exhibitors?

Eventeny replaces the spreadsheets, forms, and manual outreach organizers use to track vendors with a single system for applications, approvals, scheduling, and communication.

How does Eventeny match organizers with vendors?

Organizers post what they're looking for, vendors apply to the events that fit their business, and Eventeny manages the review and approval process between them.

About Eventeny:

Eventeny is an event management platform that connects ticketing, vendor management, mapping, volunteer shift tracking, scheduling, and guest logistics into one system, replacing the stack of disconnected tools most organizers piece together on their own. Its founders built the platform after watching their sister, an event planner, wear herself out under the manual chaos of the job. Eventeny has processed more than a million vendor applications and says it saves organizers up to four months of manual work a year.
