This arrangement closes the gap between global investors and Nigeria's capital market by combining Coronation's deep expertise with Daba's technology and international reach.”

Under the arrangement, Daba Finance serves as Coronation's corporate client through a trust structure, providing its eligible users with access to Nigerian capital-market products made available by Coronation. Daba Finance users interact through the Daba Finance platform, while the underlying Nigerian capital-market services are provided within Nigeria's regulated framework by Coronation's Securities and Exchange Commission-registered businesses.

The arrangement is built around three areas:

1. Market intelligence: Daba Finance's platform will feature Nigerian market intelligence supported by Coronation's research and market expertise, including market news, data, analysis and research publications.

2. Investor education: Daba Finance and Coronation will provide investor education through courses available via Daba Academy and Coronation Investment Academy, as well as jointly delivered webinars, helping investors understand Nigeria's capital-market instruments, institutions, opportunities and risks.

3. Digital access: Eligible Daba Finance users can access Nigerian capital-market products made available by Coronation through the Daba Finance platform. The live functionality supports fully digital onboarding, multi-currency funding, investment request/trade placement and investment reporting.

Daba Finance determines and manages the user journey through its platform. Coronation's role is to provide the relevant Nigerian capital-market expertise and products to Daba under the corporate trust arrangement. The relevant functionality is currently live on the Daba platform.

Boum III; Jr, Chief Executive Officer of Daba Finance, said: "Millions of Africans in the diaspora and investors around the world follow African markets closely but find it hard to participate from a distance because accessing credible information and navigating local market structures can be challenging. This arrangement helps to close that gap by combining Coronation's deep Nigerian market expertise with Daba's technology and international reach. Through Daba, eligible investors can learn about the market, understand the opportunities and risks, and access relevant investment products through a seamless digital experience."

Jibola Odedina, Managing Director/Chief Executive Officer of Coronation Securities Limited, said: "Nigeria's capital market presents significant opportunities for investors seeking exposure to one of Africa's most dynamic economies. However, expanding participation requires more than providing access; it requires credible market intelligence, investor confidence and a clear understanding of the investment environment. Through this arrangement, we are combining Coronation's deep market expertise with Daba's digital reach to make the Nigerian capital market more visible, understandable and accessible to a broader international investor audience."
