STATEN ISLAND, NY, UNITED STATES, September 3, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Lov MedSpa has officially relocated its Staten Island clinical practice to a new facility located at 4247 Richmond Avenue, Staten Island, NY 10312. The move provides the practice with an expanded floor plan and updated clinical infrastructure, allowing the team to install specialized body contouring equipment and add both surgical and minimally invasive aesthetic procedures to its service offerings.

Coinciding with the opening of the Richmond Avenue location, Lov MedSpa is introducing two primary services: Liposuction and the Brazilian Butt Lift (BBL). These treatments mark an expansion beyond the clinic's traditional non-invasive aesthetic services, establishing dedicated procedural options for localized fat removal and autologous fat transfer performed under established clinical safety protocols.

To support these additions, the practice has installed specialized body contouring equipment designed for tissue extraction and fat grafting. Liposuction procedures performed at the facility focus on addressing localized subcutaneous fat deposits in treatment areas including the abdomen, flanks, back, and thighs. Harvested fat tissue can then be prepared and utilized for Brazilian Butt Lift procedures, providing patients seeking contour adjustments with natural volume augmentation through autologous tissue transfer.

The transition to 4247 Richmond Avenue accommodates the specific spatial, technical, and regulatory requirements associated with these body sculpting treatments. The facility features private consultation rooms, sterile procedural suites, and post-procedure recovery spaces designed to maintain patient safety, privacy, and clinical efficiency. Located along a central commercial thoroughfare on Staten Island, the new office also offers accessible parking and regional transit access for patients visiting from across the borough and surrounding areas.

Patients seeking Liposuction or BBL procedures undergo an in-depth clinical consultation at the Richmond Avenue office prior to scheduling. During this evaluation, practitioners review medical histories, examine anatomical suitability, and outline procedural details, expected timelines, and recovery guidelines. Pre-operative preparation and post-procedure follow-up visits are managed directly on-site to ensure continuity of care throughout the recovery phase.

Alongside the new Liposuction and BBL services, Lov MedSpa continues to provide its existing menu of medical spa and aesthetic treatments at the new address. Consultations and appointments are now being scheduled at 4247 Richmond Avenue.
