CrossState Solutions Partners with Rippleshot to Bring Proactive Fraud Intelligence to Credit Unions

CrossState Credit Union Association has partnered with Rippleshot to give credit unions access to advanced fraud intelligence tools to reduce fraud losses.

HARRISBURG, PA, UNITED STATES, September 9, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- CrossState Credit Union Association, through CrossState Solutions, has partnered with Rippleshot to give credit unions across New Jersey and Pennsylvania access to advanced fraud intelligence and peer collaboration tools designed to help identify emerging threats earlier and reduce fraud losses.

Protecting credit unions and their members from fraud has long been a CrossState priority. The Rippleshot partnership expands that work by giving credit unions additional intelligence and resources to identify emerging threats, collaborate with peers, and respond proactively.

“Fraud is evolving quickly, and credit unions need more than tools that help them respond after a loss has already occurred,” said Patrick Conway, President & CEO of CrossState Credit Union Association. “Our partnership with Rippleshot gives credit unions access to actionable intelligence, proven technology, and the collective insight of their peers so they can identify emerging threats earlier and respond with greater confidence. This is exactly the kind of solution we want to bring to our members—one that helps them protect their institutions and their members.”

"CrossState built an actual senior fraud protection toolkit, not just a policy on paper, and that tells you everything about how seriously they take protecting the credit unions and members behind them. That's the kind of team we wanted to build this with, and we're looking forward to giving their credit unions one more way to stop fraud before it ever reaches a member," said Nalani Brown, VP of Operations at Rippleshot.
