KnokX Pro Entertainment's MANA Announces Monthly Performances at Treasure Island Las Vegas Through December

The story of Treasure Island author Robert Louis Stevenson comes to life at Treasure Island Las Vegas through Polynesian dance, music and fire

LAS VEGAS, NV, UNITED STATES, September 9, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- KnokX Pro Entertainment has announced monthly performances of MANA — The Polynesian Revue & Luau: The Final Journey of Robert Louis Stevenson at Treasure Island Las Vegas through December 2026. As the only Polynesian luau-and-live-revue production on the Las Vegas Strip, locals and visitors have a rare opportunity to experience a full Polynesian feast and live show without boarding a flight across the Pacific.

> "I've spent much of my life creating live entertainment that makes people feel something, but MANA comes from a deeper place. This is a chance to share the food, music, dance, and stories of Polynesia."
> Anoa'i

MANA tells the remarkable story of Robert Louis Stevenson, the world-renowned author of Treasure Island, who later embarked on a real-life journey across the South Pacific. His travels took him through Tahiti, Hawai□i, New Zealand and ultimately Samoa, where he made his home and was laid to rest atop Mount Vaea.

Presented through Polynesian dance, music and theatrical storytelling, MANA celebrates the cultures and traditions Stevenson encountered throughout his journey. Cinematic projection transforms the Treasure Island ballroom with the sights and spirit of the South Pacific as the story moves from island to island.
Created by Fonoti Reno Anoa'i and presented by KnokX Pro Entertainment, MANA brings together an outstanding cast of respected Polynesian performers and cultural artists.

For producer Fonoti Reno Anoa'i, MANA is also deeply personal. After years of producing professional wrestling and live entertainment through KnokX Pro Entertainment, Anoa'i wanted to use the same skills that fill arenas, storytelling, emotion and audience connection, to bring his heritage center stage.

“I’ve spent much of my life creating live entertainment that makes people feel something, but MANA comes from a much deeper place,” said Anoa‘i, who has produced professional wrestling and live entertainment through KnokX Pro Entertainment. “This is an opportunity to share the food, music, dance, stories, and hospitality of Polynesia with pride. I wanted to create something our community could see themselves in while welcoming others into the experience.”

MANA — The Polynesian Revue & Luau: The Final Journey of Robert Louis Stevenson at Treasure Island Las Vegas

Runi Tafeaga, founder of Hot Lava Productions, serves as Cultural Dance Director and Creative Choreographer, leading the dancers who bring each island and its traditions to life.

Renowned Samoan singer and entertainer Atoa Ripley serves as the production’s host and featured vocalist, guiding audiences through Stevenson’s journey with music and storytelling.

Wailana Lee, daughter of legendary Hawaiian singer-songwriter Kui Lee, appears as Queen Kapi□olani. A gifted singer and dancer, Lee brings a special connection to Hawai□i’s musical and cultural legacy.

The production builds toward a powerful Samoa finale honoring Stevenson—known to the Samoan people as Tusitala, “Teller of Tales”—and culminates with an unforgettable performance featuring multiple Fire Knife Warriors.
