Leading life settlement professionals will gather in Dublin on 15 September for an afternoon of market insight, expert discussion and networking.

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, September 8, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- With just one week to go, the European Life Settlement Association (ELSA) is preparing to welcome professionals from across the international life settlement market to the Dublin Life Settlement Symposium 2026, taking place on Tuesday, 15 September 2026, at Byrne Wallace Shields in Dublin.

The Symposium will bring together investors, providers, brokers, legal experts and other industry professionals for an afternoon examining some of the key developments shaping the global life settlement market.

With just one week to go, we are looking forward to welcoming colleagues from across the life settlement industry to Dublin”

The programme will feature expert presentations, market analysis and panel discussions covering European regulation, investor sentiment, artificial intelligence and the evolving role of technology within the sector.

Professor Federico Fabbrini, Full Professor of EU Law and Founding Director of the Dublin European Law Institute (DELI) at Dublin City University, as well as a Fulbright Schuman Fellow at Harvard Kennedy School, will deliver the keynote address, exploring the legal and political landscape following Brexit and its implications for Ireland and the wider European market.

Delegates will also hear the latest findings from the ELSA/Conning Investor Sentiment Survey, presented by Manu Mazumdar, providing insight into investor attitudes towards the life settlement asset class and expectations for the market.

Artificial intelligence will be another key area of discussion, with Vince Granieri of Predictive Resources, Matthew Sheridan of Health Data Analytics Institute (HDAI) and Martin Kramer of Longevity Holdings taking part in a specialist panel examining AI in underwriting and the opportunities and challenges emerging as technology plays an increasingly important role across the industry.

Alongside the formal programme, the Symposium will provide delegates with opportunities to meet fellow market participants, exchange ideas and strengthen connections across the international life settlement community.

Chris Wells, Executive Director of ELSA, said:

“With just one week to go, we are looking forward to welcoming colleagues from across the life settlement industry to Dublin. The Symposium offers an important opportunity to hear different perspectives on the issues shaping the market, share ideas and strengthen relationships across the international community.”

ELSA would also like to thank Corry Capital Advisors, Coventry Capital, Fifth Season Investments and Preston Capital for their support of the Dublin Life Settlement Symposium 2026.

The ELSA Annual General Meeting will take place following the Symposium.

With just one week remaining, professionals working within or connected to the life settlement market are encouraged to secure their place.
