Atlanta Based Heartstrings Pet Hospice Launches National Veterinary Hiring Initiative: 'Life is Better at Heartstrings'

Family and Privately owned Heartstrings Pet Hospice is expanding nationwide, hiring veterinarians with no non-competes.

Atlanta Based Heartstrings Pet Hospice

ATLANTA, GA, UNITED STATES, September 9, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Heartstrings Pet Hospice Launches National Veterinary Hiring Initiative: “Life Is Better at Heartstrings”

Privately Owned • No Veterinarian Non-Competes • True Work-Life Balance • Professional Autonomy

Heartstrings Pet Hospice, a privately owned provider of compassionate in-home pet hospice and end-of-life veterinary care, today announced a nationwide recruiting initiative as the organization continues expanding into metropolitan communities across the United States.

The message behind that growth is simple:

Life Is Better at Heartstrings.

As consolidation and private-equity investment continue to reshape veterinary medicine, Heartstrings is building something different: a veterinary organization where people come before profits and veterinarians are treated as professionals - not numbers.

Privately Owned. People Focused.

Heartstrings is privately owned and not owned by a private-equity firm.

That independence allows Heartstrings to focus on what matters most: its veterinarians, Veterinary Care Specialists, support teams, and the families who give Heartstrings the honor of caring for their beloved pets.

You are not a number. You are not a profit center. You are a human being and a valued member of our team.

No Veterinarian Non-Competes

Heartstrings does not require its veterinarians to sign non-compete agreements.

Why? Because we believe loyalty should be earned, not contractually enforced.

Veterinarians should have the freedom to make decisions about their careers, families, and futures without being forced to leave the communities they call home.

We want our doctors to stay because they want to be here.

True Work-Life Balance & Professional Autonomy

Veterinary medicine is demanding- especially end-of-life care. Heartstrings believes meaningful veterinary medicine should not require sacrificing your personal life.

Our veterinarians are trusted as professionals and supported by medical leadership, Veterinary Care Specialists, and operational leadership who work with one another, not against one another.

We believe in flexibility. We believe in autonomy. We believe in supporting each other.

Most importantly:

We Believe in You.

Now Hiring Veterinarians Nationwide

Heartstrings is actively recruiting veterinarians in metropolitan areas throughout the United States, including communities where Heartstrings does not yet have an established presence.

We are looking for veterinarians who want to practice meaningful medicine, help build something different, and provide families with compassionate, peaceful, and dignified end-of-life care in the comfort of home.

Every family who invites Heartstrings into their home during one of life's most difficult moments gives us an extraordinary honor—and we want extraordinary people standing beside us.

You are not a number.
You matter.
Your family matters.
Your career matters.
Your voice matters.
