I like to set fictional companions beside real history, where the historical figures can take on an almost mythical aura. That is the space Dupont Investigations lives in.”

Dupont Investigations co-creator and showrunner.*

Langston's storytelling intertwines historical accuracy, LGBTQ+ representation, and immersive narrative. In Dupont Investigations, that means a queer detective taking the cases no one else will touch, a real brewmaster woven into the plot, and a period Washington researched down to the household staff of the houses it visits. Across the series and his longform fiction, Langston brings the lives of gay characters in the early twentieth century to light. More about him is at nocturnehall.com/mbi.

“A great story can power us through a tough exam, a long shift, or provide solace amidst pain or loss,” said Marc Benjamin Langston. “I like to set fictional companions beside real history, where the historical figures can take on an almost mythical aura. That is the space Dupont Investigations lives in.”

Dupont Investigations is the brainchild of Washington, DC-based co-creators and showrunners Marc Benjamin Langston (he/him) and Bryce Bowyn (he/him). Langston is a long-form writer and an attorney. Bryce Bowyn is an electropop musician and advocate for LGBTQ+ rights and mental health. Both creators are DC Arts and Humanities Fellows, recognized for their outstanding contributions to DC as a world-class cultural capital, for their fiction and popular-music work, respectively.
