Many outstanding Texas Artists are included in the exhibition, which includes artists from 21 states. The full list of Artists Invited to exhibit at the 2026 Art Worth Festival, follows; examples of their work, linked to the artists' websites may be viewed on the Art Worth Festival's website < https://artworthfest.org/our-artists-for-2026 >.

The Art Worth Festival aims to present work of a caliber equal the level of the nation's top art fairs. So, Art Worth's jury for the 2026 selection included the Directors of two top national festivals: the Saint Louis Art Fair (Clayton MO), and the nation's oldest art festival, Rittenhouse Square (Philadelphia PA). Th jury also included a recently retired grand dame of the art festival word, Amy Flynn, and two well-known Fort Worth arts figures: Pam Summers (ceramic artist & owner of Cliff House Gallery); and Thomas Lake (long-time block captain at Fort Worth Main Street Art Festival).

In addition to works of art exhibited by the invited artists, the Art Worth Festival also features continuous demonstrations of art disciplines such as glassblowing, metalsmithing, woodturning, and more. All aimed at increasing public understanding of the skills and talents involved in creating art.
The three-day event also showcases Classical Music, with performances by area ensembles ranging from elementary and high schools to The Fort Worth Opera, which will perform daily at the event.
The Shops at Clearfork's feature a dozen restaurants, offering a wide array of dining options & Libations will also be available on the lawn that serves as the festival site. Among the onsite vendors is Clearfork's CRÚ Food & Wine Bar.
