Airpower Foundation and Executive Director Melissa Kithas.

Brad Brandon is the founder and CEO of Across Nigeria.

Melissa Kithas is the Executive Director of the Airpower Foundation. She leads programs and partnerships focused on honoring, supporting, and empowering military service members, veterans, and their families through innovative solutions, strategic collaborations, and meaningful community engagement.

Through her leadership, Airpower Foundation thrives. Airpower provides a number of services for veterans and their families, including providing service dogs for veterans, equine-assisted therapy, and offering programs that help veterans successfully transition from military service to meaningful civilian careers. They do this by providing access to career development resources, professional training, mentorship, and employment opportunities:

Veteran Workforce Development Program
The Airpower Foundation Veteran Workforce Development Program in collaboration with the Four Sixes Ranch, Pitchfork Ranch, Lazy E Arena, Lazy E Ranch, Reliance Ranches, Texas A&M Agrilife Extension, and the Texas Veterans Commission to be able to place Veterans with meaningful employment at Ranches and Farms across the nation. Veterans take skills they learned in the military and are empowered by the ability to apply them into their new chapter. These Veterans will have served our country by protecting her citizens and continue their service by feeding them.

Service Dog Program
The Airpower Foundation's Service Dog program is partnered with Hiatus K9 to train and place certified service dogs with Veterans. Our focus is on trained Service dogs that provide life-changing physical and psychological benefits for veterans, including significantly reduced PTSD symptom severity, lower anxiety and depression, fewer nightmares, and enhanced daily independence. These working dogs help Veterans show up every day for themselves and for their families.

The Airpower Foundation's Equine Therapy and Retreat Program
The Airpower Foundation is partnering with Rush Creek Sanctuary and Retreat Center to provide Veterans and their families with a mental health retreat that is focused on healing, support, and empowerment through equine therapy. There will be individual therapy for Veterans coping with Post Traumatic Stress, Traumatic Brain Injury, and more. Couples and family therapy for Veteran marriages to make sure that there is whole family healing, bonding, and growth. Equine therapy offers veterans a powerful, hands-on way to reduce PTSD symptoms, lower anxiety, and build emotional regulation. By interacting with horses—which are sensitive animals that mirror human moods—veterans learn real-time mindfulness, rebuild trust, and improve communication without the pressure of traditional talk therapy.

Melissa's leadership experience extends internationally, where she has been involved in leadership development, community infrastructure initiatives, and economic development efforts designed to strengthen organizations, empower communities, and create sustainable growth. These experiences have shaped her ability to navigate complex challenges, build collaborative partnerships, and develop strategies that create lasting impact across diverse communities and cultures.

A passionate advocate for veterans, military families, and those who serve, Melissa is dedicated to creating meaningful experiences that unite communities and ensure the sacrifices of our nation's heroes are honored and never forgotten.

Brad Brandon is the founder and CEO of Across Nigeria. For over twenty years, he served in Pastoral ministry. For ten years he was a daily drive-time Radio Talk Show Host for Salem Communications. He has articles published by The Daily Wire, Washington Times, Townhall, and The Christian Post, along with other media outlets. He is a contributor on Fox News, Newsmax, Glenn Beck, Washington Watch, and many other programs. Since 2018, he has been actively serving in foreign mission fields. He serves predominantly in high-risk, highly persecuted areas like northern Nigeria and other parts of West Africa. Through Pastor Brad and the Across Nigeria team, groundbreaking work is being done to bring education and literacy training to Muslim communities, along with aid and relief to Christian communities that are suffering intense persecution for their faith.

Brad Brandon's most recent Opinion Editorial with The Christian Post addresses the issue that, while global awareness of the plight of Nigerian Christians has increased, nothing has changed. With the upcoming United Nations General Assembly in New York City, Brad urges world leaders to act.
"For years, we prayed the world would notice. God has answered that prayer, and the world is finally looking. Now it must not look away. It must demand measurable accountability from the Nigerian government to protect its citizens, from the international community to move beyond symbolic resolutions, and from democratic nations to ensure that religious freedom remains more than an aspiration on paper."

Joby Walters, author of the new book CUT FREE: A Hells Angels Ride to Redemption, has lived a life that few could imagine. Once an enforcer for the Hells Angels Motorcycle Club, he was personally patched in by legendary founder Sonny Barger and spent years immersed in one of the world's most notorious outlaw brotherhoods. His life was marked by violence, unwavering loyalty, and a relentless pursuit of freedom on the open road. But Joby's greatest journey began when he encountered the grace of Jesus Christ. Leaving behind the only life he had ever known, he discovered a freedom that no motorcycle club could offer. Today, he dedicates his life to sharing that message of hope with prisoners, bikers, veterans, and anyone searching for a second chance.

In CUT FREE, Joby tells his remarkable true story with unflinching honesty—revealing both the darkness of his past and the redemption that transformed his future. More than a memoir, it is a testament that no one is beyond the reach of God's grace.

His forthcoming (November 10): Revolutionary Snipers Washington's Frontier Commandos Whose Marksmanship Forged a New Way of War and Helped Win the Revolution is already a bestseller on preorders alone. This immersive, action-packed, Band of Brothers-style narrative history is his third in a trilogy on the American Revolution, following Washington's Immortals and The Indispensables, making it essential for the 250th Anniversary of the United States and an ideal title for Veterans Day.

The book has garnered so much advance praise that the additional reviews had to be placed within its interior pages. Raves include: "Patrick O'Donnell has outdone himself in his latest history of the Revolutionary War. Revolutionary Snipers is a masterpiece of narrative history that transports readers back to a previously untold, bloody history of our war for independence. It belongs on every American's bookshelf." —Jack Carr, #1 New York Times Bestselling author of The Terminal List and The Fourth Option.

"A riveting account of the American Revolution's most unconventional soldiers—ragtag, rugged, fiercely independent and sometimes hard to manage, they nonetheless played a crucial role in some of the conflict's most important fights."—Don N. Hagist, editor, Journal of the American Revolution.

“Revolutionary Snipers is mesmerizing history. O'Donnell gives us mastery of the details in an absorbing and elegant book. A must-read and a necessary testament to the courage and skill of these remarkable men.” —Peter Schweizer, Investigative Journalist and Bestselling Author.

O’Donnell is a renowned professional speaker who delivers his lectures extemporaneously, without notes, on America’s conflicts, espionage, and special operations, and has been in tremendous demand keynoting events for the 250th.

His books also include The Unvanquished and The Unknowns, and many have received numerous national awards. He is a senior fellow at Mount Vernon and a director and the historian of The OSS Society. O’Donnell not only writes about combat but has fought in America’s deadliest urban warfare of the 21st century and served as a combat historian fighting house-to-house with a Marine rifle platoon during the Battle of Fallujah. We Were One, based on the story of his platoon and eight best friends, where only three return home, was on multiple Commandants’ Professional Reading Lists as required reading for the Marine Corps. Combat and work for various agencies honed his expertise on irregular warfare and the current conflict with Iran and IRGC.

The award-winning historian is also a frequent contributor to Fox News and Breitbart, a guest host on War Room and other shows, and a historical consultant for DreamWorks’ award-winning miniseries, "Band of Brothers," and scores of documentaries produced by the BBC, The History Channel, and Discovery. @combathistorian
