Since its inception, Credible Security Solutions has been synonymous with integrity, vigilance and professional excellence. Founded and led by CEO Jay Abiona, whose own career in the security industry dates back to 1990 in New York City, the company has built an impeccable reputation through high stakes assignments, including providing security for New York City's, Times Square New Year's Eve ball drop from 2011 to 2019, protecting A-list celebrities as well as overseeing security for two historic moon landing missions in Houston, Texas. This new website serves as a digital reflection of that deep, multi faceted experience.

A Commitment to Transparency and Client Education:
In an era where security threats are increasingly complex, Credible Security Solutions recognizes that the greatest asset a client can have is knowledge. Moving away from a traditional, sales focused digital presence, the company has integrated a dedicated "Protection Page" into its new website. This section is specifically curated to demystify the security industry and provide objective, actionable advice for businesses and individuals looking to hire professional protection, while also providing more information on why choosing Credible Security is a clients best bet.

"The security guard industry is often opaque and clients frequently struggle to distinguish between a truly professional security officer company and those that lack the necessary training, background, or overall company culture for their guards," says a spokesperson for Credible Security Solutions. "With this new website, we are pulling back the curtain. We believe that an educated client is a safer client. By providing a guide on what to look for when hiring a security officer company, we are raising the bar for the entire security guard industry, while also providing information regarding what we offer when you contract our Credible Security Officers."

Navigating the Guide; What to Look For:
The new Protection Page offers a deep dive into the vetting process, outlining the essential criteria that every client should demand from a security provider. The guide covers several critical pillars of professional security, including:

* Licensing and Compliance: The importance of verifying state-mandated licenses and insurance coverage to protect the client from liability.

* Training Standards: An analysis of what constitutes adequate training for personnel, emphasizing the difference between basic watch-and-report services and high-level protection. Not just "observe and report' but deter, detect and defend.

* Operational Transparency: Why reputable firms must be willing to disclose their standard operating procedures, reporting protocols, and emergency response plans.

* Background and Vetting: A look at the rigorous internal processes a company should use to screen its own employees, ensuring that the people guarding a client's assets are beyond reproach.

* Contractual Integrity: Advice on reading the fine print, understanding service level agreements and ensuring that the terms of the contract are designed to benefit the client, not just the service provider.

This educational resource is designed to be vendor neutral, meaning the guidance is useful regardless of whether a client ultimately chooses to work with Credible Security Solutions or another firm. The company's goal is to ensure that the industry as a whole operates with higher standards of accountability and Credible Security is also accepting phone calls to assist potential clients with making the right decision when hiring a security company.

A Modern Interface for a Modern Era:
Beyond the educational content, the website features a streamlined, user-friendly interface that reflects the company's evolution. Over the past 16 years, Credible Security Solutions has adapted to the changing landscape of security, moving from traditional physical security to more integrated, technology driven protection strategies. The new site captures this shift, offering easier navigation, mobile responsiveness and a clearer presentation of the company's specialized services, ranging from executive protection to corporate risk assessment by means of security consultation, private investigation and providing armed and credible security officers.

The launch of the website is part of a broader initiative by Jay Abiona to integrate his various business ventures including his publishing house, Books by Jay Abiona, LLC under a cohesive, transparent and service oriented philosophy. This digital update ensures that clients can easily access the information they need to secure their businesses and their peace of mind.
