Dr. Jennifer Nash Selected to Speak at DisruptHR Houston 6.0

AUSTIN, TX, UNITED STATES, September 9, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Dr. Jennifer Nash, leadership consultant, executive coach, author, and founder of Jennifer Nash Coaching & Consulting, has been selected as a speaker for DisruptHR Houston 6.0, taking place in Houston, Texas.

This year's event, themed "HR NEXT," brings together HR professionals and business leaders for an evening of fast-paced conversations about the future of work, leadership, technology, and the human side of organizations.

Jennifer will present "Beyond the Tech: How to Lead Humans in the Age of AI." Her five-minute talk will explore an issue many organizations are facing as artificial intelligence becomes part of everyday work: technology may change how work gets done, but people determine whether that change actually creates value.

"AI is changing the workplace quickly, but the conversation often focuses more on the technology than on the people expected to use it," said Dr. Jennifer Nash. "Leaders need to think not only about how they help people adapt, communicate, make decisions, and continue performing but also how work changes."

Jennifer's work focuses on the intersection of human behavior, leadership, organizational change, communication, and performance. As an MG100 and one of the top 300 executive coaches in the world, she works with executives and organizations to strengthen leadership effectiveness and help people and organizations perform at their best.

She is the author of the 14x award-winning book Be Human, Lead Human: How to Connect People and Performance used with leadership teams at Boeing, Ford, Google, IBM, J.P. Morgan, Mazda, Deloitte, Verizon, Qualtrics, NRG, McDonald's, and others.

DisruptHR Houston 6.0 will feature a lineup of speakers addressing timely questions facing today's workplace and the future of HR.
