Dr. Judith McAllister Announces New Project 'For Love's Sake,' Centered on the Resurrection of Jesus Christ

A Purple Butterfly Group Production slated for a 2027 release

For Love's Sake-Title of Upcoming Project

LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, September 10, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- After nearly two decades away from new music, Dr. Judith McAllister, (Dr. J as she is affectionately known) celebrated architect of contemporary Praise and Worship, is preparing to release For Love's Sake, a new project set for 2027. It will be her first new body of work in 18 years.

For Love's Sake is a Purple Butterfly Group Production featuring multiple musical worship expressions unified by a single, unshakable center: the Resurrection of Jesus Christ. The project is being crafted not only as an album to be heard, but as a worship resource, music intended to inspire, uplift, and remind believers of the hope found in the risen Christ throughout the church calendar year.

"For Love's Sake is more than a title, it's the reason I've kept singing all these years," said Dr. J. "Every song on this project points back to one truth: that Jesus rose again, and because He lives, we have hope. I believe this music will find its way into churches and hearts not just for a season, but for years to come."

Dr. J's catalog, including "To Our God", "Like the Dew", and "Oh Give Thanks," and so many more, have become woven into the fabric of Sunday worship for congregations around the world, sung in churches long after their original release. For nearly two decades, she has remained a steady voice in the lives of worship leaders, choirs, and congregations everywhere, even as the release of new original music paused. For Love's Sake marks her return to recording, carrying the depth of those years into a sound shaped entirely around the truth of the empty tomb.

Further details on the release, including track listings, and featured collaborators, will be announced in the coming months.
