

World Federation Right to Die Societies Launches New International Quarterly on End-of-Life Choice

A new international publication, the WFRtDS Quarterly, bringing together news, research, advocacy, and developments in end-of-life choice from around the world.

BARCELONA, SPAIN, September 10, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The World Federation of Right to Die Societies (WFRtDS) has launched a new international publication, the WFRtDS Quarterly, bringing together news, research, advocacy and developments in end-of-life choice from around the world.

The digital publication is designed to connect the Federation's international network and provide readers with a regular overview of developments in voluntary assisted dying, assisted dying and right-to-die advocacy.

The inaugural issue will be released on 25 November and features the latest research, policy updates, advocacy challenges and successes, and human interest articles from across the international movement.

Aimed at ensuring accurate and timely information about assisted dying, it provides a forum for sharing information and experience across jurisdictions where laws and approaches to end-of-life choice continue to evolve.

Edited by Australian Journalist Suzanne James, the WFRtDS Quarterly will be published four times a year and is available via online subscription.

"We wanted to create a publication that reflects the breadth of work taking place across the international right-to-die movement," said Peter Warren, Executive Director of WFRtDS. "The Quarterly provides an opportunity to share that work more widely and strengthen connections between organizations and supporters around the world."
