

Showcase Furniture Unveils Tyler Creek Dining Table With Farmhouse Style

Showcase Furniture has announced the presentation of the Tyler Creek Counter Height Dining Table, a farmhouse-inspired dining piece designed.

MOUNT DORA, FL, UNITED STATES, September 15, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Showcase Furniture has announced the presentation of the Tyler Creek Counter Height Dining Table, a farmhouse-inspired dining piece designed to combine everyday dining with built-in storage. The table, available through the retailer's dining room collection, features four drawers, open shelving, and a seven-bottle wine rack within its base.

The Tyler Creek Counter Height Dining Table is manufactured by Ashley Furniture and carries SKU D736-32. Its design combines a textured black finish with a timeworn planked-oak-look top, creating a two-tone appearance associated with urban farmhouse furniture. The counter-height table measures approximately 60 inches wide, 40 inches deep, and 36 inches high and weighs 194 pounds.

Storage Takes Center Stage

The table is designed to make storage part of the dining furniture itself. Four lined drawers provide enclosed space for smaller dining items, while open shelving beneath the tabletop offers accessible storage for household essentials. A built-in seven-bottle rack creates a dedicated area for wine storage.

This arrangement gives the table a practical role beyond providing a surface for meals. Dining linens, serving accessories, and other smaller items can be kept in the drawers, while frequently used or display-worthy pieces can be placed on the open shelves. The bottle rack provides a defined storage location without requiring a separate wine cabinet.

“The design gives the dining area useful storage without separating those functions from the table itself,” a Showcase Furniture representative said. “That makes the piece relevant to households that want practical organization built into everyday furniture without adding another major storage unit.”

The counter-height format also gives the table a distinct position within dining furniture. Its rectangular surface is designed for household meals and gatherings while providing a higher seating arrangement than conventional dining-height tables. The product is intended to seat up to six people, making it suitable for family dining and everyday entertaining.

Farmhouse Details Meet Everyday Function

The Tyler Creek design combines darker structural elements with a lighter, weathered-looking tabletop. According to the product description, the textured black finish and timeworn planked-oak top create a two-tone contrast, while the overall styling reflects a trend-right urban farmhouse aesthetic.

The storage features are integrated into the table base rather than added as separate furniture pieces. This approach allows the counter height dining table to serve as both a central gathering point and a storage solution within the dining area.

The table also includes specific built-in dimensions designed around its storage configuration. The four lined drawers measure approximately 19.13 inches wide, 14.63 inches deep, and 1.63 inches high internally. The table includes separate open storage areas beneath the top, along with the seven-bottle rack.

For households planning a dining space, the combination of dining and storage can provide an alternative to using additional furniture for smaller dining supplies. The table's design keeps storage close to where those items are likely to be used while maintaining the farmhouse-inspired appearance of the overall piece.

Product Fits Wider Furniture Range

Showcase Furniture lists the Tyler Creek Counter Height Dining Table among its dining room offerings. The retailer's dining category includes dining tables, dining room sets, chairs, benches, bar stools, bar furniture, and dining room storage.

The company operates from Mt. Dora, Florida, and serves customers through its physical location and online store. Its broader furniture selection includes living room, bedroom, dining room, home décor, office, kids' furniture, mattresses, and outdoor categories. Showcase Furniture also lists Ashley, Coaster, Leather Italia, and Liberty among the brands it carries.

"A dining table can become a work surface, gathering place, and storage point in a busy home," the representative said. "Adding drawers, shelves, and bottle storage gives the furniture more defined uses while keeping the overall layout straightforward."

The Tyler Creek Counter Height Dining Table is also available as part of a broader Tyler Creek dining collection that includes coordinating dining furniture. This allows customers considering the table to explore related seating and dining pieces when planning a coordinated room.

Showcase Furniture's presentation of the table highlights a practical approach to dining furniture in which storage is incorporated directly into the primary piece. Rather than relying entirely on separate cabinets, servers, or storage units, the design places drawers, shelving, and bottle storage within the table base.

The company also provides delivery and financing options as part of its customer services. Its website states that same-day delivery is available for eligible furniture, giving customers another option when purchasing selected items from its broader inventory.

The Tyler Creek Counter Height Dining Table adds a storage-focused option to Showcase Furniture's dining room selection while combining counter-height seating with farmhouse-inspired styling. Its integrated storage configuration gives the piece multiple household functions while maintaining a straightforward dining table format.
