HOLLYWOOD, CA, UNITED STATES, September 10, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Archi Enterprises Inc and Axion Supports was founded on the vision to create a modular camera support system unrivaled for its portability and reconfigurability for a broad range of camera support needs. The Axion System was born. Archi's modular parts are assembled into a variety of camera supports that are easily transported and configured at any location, reconfigured where requirements change, and then quickly disassembled for compact storage when the job is done. Whether using the track-based X-Dolly, the rickshaw-style S-Dolly, or a compact I-Slider kit on standard junior-mount light stands, Archi offers a camera support solution to answer the unique needs of any production. To learn more visit the Axion Supports website: https://axionsupports.com/

Festival director and founder Lisa K. Crosato is excited about this opportunity and says, "We are happy to bring cutting edge camera support equipment to the festival and allow filmmakers to explore options to enhance their next production and deliver pragmatic solutions to filmmaking."

Archi Enterprises Founder, Alex LeBlanc and team will be on hand at the event for an interactive experience to demonstrate the camera support system and answer questions. This promises to be a fun and dynamic addition to the festival which aims to merge the creative with hands on options for filmmakers.
