

Taryag Capital Joins NVIDIA VC Alliance

Membership offers a path to NVIDIA Inception benefits for eligible portfolio startups, including hardware discounts and cloud credits.

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, September 14, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Taryag Capital has joined the NVIDIA VC Alliance to help eligible portfolio companies access technical support, preferred hardware pricing and cloud-credit opportunities through NVIDIA Inception.

As an alliance member, Taryag Capital can refer qualifying startups in its portfolio for fast-tracked review of their Inception applications. Companies accepted into the program can request preferred pricing on select NVIDIA hardware and software, cloud credits from participating providers, developer training and support for bringing products to market.

Taryag Capital will work with interested portfolio teams to identify relevant benefits and prepare their applications. The focus is practical: helping founders evaluate compute options, manage development costs and connect their technical teams with training as they build and deploy AI products.

The VC Alliance is NVIDIA's program for investors supporting AI and technology startups. It connects member firms with technical and industry insights, startup introductions and portfolio support. NVIDIA Inception is the separate program through which eligible startups receive development and business support; Taryag's membership does not automatically enroll its portfolio companies.

Each company must meet the applicable program requirements. Hardware discounts and cloud credits depend on eligibility, availability and provider terms; no specific credit amount or hardware allocation is guaranteed.

Taryag Capital portfolio companies can contact Thomas Berger at thomas@taryagcapital.com to discuss referrals and available program benefits.
