Marking The 25th Anniversary Of 9/11 – Research Added To The MEMRI 9/11 Documentation Project In 2026

WASHINGTON, DC, UNITED STATES, September 11, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In the twenty-five years since the September 11, 2001 attacks, the Middle East Media Research Institute (MEMRI) has been monitoring, translating, and documenting content about the attacks in media from the Middle East, South Asia, and beyond. The MEMRI 9/11 Documentation Project, launched to mark the 10th anniversary of the attacks, archives all MEMRI translations, analysis, and clips about the attacks and their aftermath, and has amassed one of the largest and most unique archives in the world on this subject. These archives allow an in-depth examination of the ideological roots and other factors that ultimately led to the attacks.

The content includes:

- Primary source material from Arab and Islamic print, broadcast, and online media and other sources.
- Material from Al-Qaeda and affiliates, including leaders' speeches, interviews, wills, and statements.
- Material from ISIS on 9/11.
- Al-Qaeda recruitment, outreach, and indoctrination materials.
- Conspiracy theories denying Arab or Muslim responsibility for the attacks – some collected from recent sermons in the U.S. monitored by the MEMRI Sermons by Imams in the West project.
